U. S. To Fight Aggression Anywhere-Truman

Nation's Chief Dares Russia To Lift Curtain

Free Nations Given Assurance Of Aid

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17 (AP) — President Truman boldly proclaimed tonight this country's readiness to fight Russia anywhere in the world to put down aggression and preserve "our free way of life."

The American people, he said in probably the toughest speech he ever has delivered, "hate war," but "love our liberties," and "will not see them destroyed."

He pledged this country's growing military might to support the peoples of all Asia to help "attain and defend their independence.'

In an address Mr. Truman said:

"We want peace. But it must be a peace founded on justice."

He made it clear, however, that the United States will not hesitate to go to war at any point in the Far East or elsewhere over the globe if this step is necessary to preserve the independence of free nations.

U. S. Ready To Meet Dangers

The President said the United States and other free nations must "oppose strength with strength" at a time when "in both Europe and Asia," vast armies of Soviet Russia and its satellites "pose a constant threat to peace."

Asserting the "evil spirit of aggression is still abroad in the world," he added "we are all faced with a clear and present danger."

He said the United States is prepared to meet "the dangers" and warned:

"Let no aggressor make any mistake about that."

He pointed out that the United States has been giving military aid to "countries threatened by aggression" and that Secretary of State Acheson is pushing a plan in the U. N. for quick joint action "in case of any outbreak of aggression."

And, reminding untold millions of listeners throughout the world that "our men are fighting now in Asia" to preserve the independence of a small nation he said the U. S. will help others in that area to "attain and defend their independence."

The President scornfully contrasted this country's offer to the Far East of a "partnership of peace" with Russia's desire to turn Asiatic peoples into "slaves of a new imperialism."

Answer To Red Propaganda

He warned Russia that the United States will not hesitate to go to war to resist aggression and defend "our liberties."

Speaking in San Francisco's War Memorial Opera House where he witnessed the signing of the United Nations Charter five years ago, Mr. Truman, fresh from his dramatic Wake Island conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, declared he was confident "in our long-range ability to maintain world peace."

His talk, the United States' answer to Soviet propaganda attempting to picture this country as "aggressors" in Korea, heralded the reopening of a new phase of his "campaign of truth" designed to force Russia to make a realistic bid for peace.

He challenged the Soviet government to lift its "Iron Curtain" and take other steps toward peace.

Egypt's King Warned Of Possible Revolt

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 17 (AP) — Party leaders opposing the government made public today an unprecedented statement they have addressed to King Farouk, hinting at a munitions scandal among his palace intimates and warning of possible revolt in Egypt.

In the document, which Farouk may see tomorrow upon his return from a two-month vacation in Europe, the opposition leaders charged the governing Wafdist Party with misrule and said the nation "may be in the most critical stage in modern history."

PYONGYANG'S FALL IMMINENT

Philadelphia Vice Squad Head, Probe Figure Kills Self

Ellis, his head pierced by a bullet from a 32-caliber revolver, was found near the Media, Pa., Hunt Club a few hours after he had been summoned to appear before the federal grand jury sitting in Philadelphia.

The 51-year-old police officer died about two hours later in the Chester hospital before he could be questioned by police officials. Howard P. Sutton, superintendent of Philadelphia police, said a note found in Ellis' car and addressed to the inspector's wife read:

"I have failed as a leader. My wife did not know of my laxity. I suppose my pain has made me mad. I pray God will help any I may have caused regrets."

Sutton said Ellis suffered from cancer.

Russia Demands Seat On Proposed U.N. Peace Patrol

Vishinsky, Dulles Confer 40 Minutes

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 17 (AP) — Andrei Y. Vishinsky demanded today that the big powers, including Russia, be given seats on a proposed U. N. peace patrol commission. But sponsors of the American-supported plan turned him down until they can see how the Soviet Union will act on their whole anti-aggression program.

Vishinsky spoke in the 60-nation Political Committee of the U. N. Assembly after a 40-minute closed-door session with John Foster Dulles, American delegate and one of the chief framers of the anti-aggression resolution.

The two delegates were smiling after their talk but it appeared they had reached no agreement on the program, known in the committee as the seven-point proposal on "united action for peace."

After the meeting, Dulles issued this statement:

"We talked over some of our differences regarding the united action for peace resolution. There was a full and frank exchange of views without positive results, other than a better understanding of our respective positions."

Before he passed out the statement Dulles showed it to Vishinsky, who said it was the way he felt about it, too.

Vishinsky opposed a section of the seven-nation proposal calling for U. N. members to maintain military units for an emergency call from the U. N. He said troops should be put at the disposal of the Security Council under the Charter and not at the beck and call of the Assembly.

Hanley Denies Payoff Charge; Probe Sought

Adds His Denial To One By Dewey

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley tonight labeled as "a new low in political smears" a charge that he was paid off to drop out of the Republican race for governor.

He added his denial to one by GOP Gov. Thomas E. Dewey amid demands for a grand jury probe of the matter.

In a radio address, Hanley seemed surprised that opponents put a "payoff" interpretation on a letter in which he wrote:

"If I will consent to take the nomination to the United States Senate, I am definitely assured of being able to clean up my financial obligations within 90 days x x x."

The letter was written to a GOP supporter after a conference with Dewey last September.

"No Commitment"

Hanley said there was "no commitment of any kind" and financial matters were not discussed "even remotely" when he decided to run for the Senate—leaving the gubernatorial field to Dewey.

In talks with Dewey, Hanley said he was pleased to learn that a state pension was available to augment his Senate salary if he was elected.

This solved one problem for him, Hanley said.

Another problem was solved, Hanley added, when Dewey assured him that—if he was beaten for senator—there would be some sort of a state job for him.

But, Hanley added:

"My financial affairs were not discussed with Mr. Dewey either then or at previous meetings."

Earlier, Dewey also denied to a hastily-called news conference that Hanley was bought off to quit the race for governor.

Probe Is Demanded

However, the statements failed to silence critics—in and out of the Republican Party—who demanded a grand jury probe of the reported deal.

Republican Publisher Frank Gannett, a pre-campaign backer of Hanley for governor, suggested a grand jury inquiry. So did an official of the American Labor Party.

He said there is a law against offering or taking any consideration for nomination or election to public office. He referred to the Hanley letter as a "confession" that a deal was arranged at Dewey's New York City headquarters.

Ship Took Vital Goods To China

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The master of the U. S. freighter "Flying Cloud" acknowledged today that he delivered steel plate, radio tubes, wire and other material to Communist China after the outbreak of the Korean war.

But the skipper, Capt. F. H. Rylander, denied his cargoes were contraband and swore they had been cleared by U. S. customs officials and Army authorities.

Rylander gave his version of the "Flying Cloud's" China trade to a Senate Commerce Subcommittee investigating the incident.

Chairman O'Conor (D-Md) told Rylander:

"It seems to me it's reprehensible for any shipments of strategic materials to be sent to Red China at this time. If there is anything wrong, we intend to get it and expose it."

O'Conor told newsmen the inquiry will be broadened to cover the government's entire policy toward halting the flow of war potential materials to Communist countries since the start of the Korean war.

The Senator said officials of the State and Commerce Departments will be asked to testify when hearings are resumed on Thursday.

U. S. Promises France Over $1,800,000,000 In Arms Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The United States promised France today it will provide from $1,800,000,000 to $2,400,000,000 in American arms and money to French forces in Europe and Indo-China by the end of 1951.

An informed government official said this arrangement was worked out during conferences with the French defense minister and finance minister which ended today.

The money would come from the total of approximately $6,000,000,000 which Congress already has appropriated to rearm nearly 20 friendly countries against the threat of Communist aggression.

France will get from 30 to 40 per cent of this total, this official said. The exact amount will be determined later after further detailed discussions between the United States and its 14 Atlantic pact allies.

In a formal announcement, the State Department said it will make available a fund of $200,000,000 before June 30 to help French factories turn out a biger flow of military equipment. The formal announcement did not mention the larger sum promised.

A French spokesman told reporters the promised American aid is intended to equip 10 French divisions on the European continent by the end of next year.

"The United States government has expressed the view that a military effort of the general magnitude and character planned by the French government would be a vital contribution to the defensive strength of the North Atlantic area," the State Department said.

This statement reflected approval by Secretary of State Acheson, Defense Secretary Marshall and Treasury Secretary Snyder of the military budget the French have been discussing with them since Friday.

The announcement said the "major part" of funds allocated for military aid to the Far East area has been assigned to French and associated troops fighting the Communists in Indo-China.

Quints Will Wear High Heels To N. Y.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 17 (AP)—The Dionne quintuplets tonight prepared to leave for their first trip to New York. They'll be wearing high-heeled shoes for the first time.

The five-day visit will be highlighted by an appearance Thursday night at the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation dinner. The quints, now 16 years old, will sing in French and English and share the spotlight with Vice-President Barkley and Gov. Dewey.

The quints have yet to wear lipstick in public. Papa Dionne said tonight they haven't asked his permission to do so when in New York. But if they do, he won't object — providing they are "reasonable."

Israeli Parliament Votes For New Election

Ben-Gurion resigned Sunday night after three religious bloc members of his government had told him they were withdrawing in opposition to a recent cabinet shift proposed to grapple with Israel's financial problem.

The outgoing Premier, who headed a four-party coalition, suggested that eight members of his cabinet be retained as a caretaker government. This failed to obtain a vote of confidence.

Diana Barrymore Weds Leading Man

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 17 (AP) — Actress Diana Barrymore married her leading man, Robert W. Wilcox, today and announced there would be no honeymoon. Prices, she said, are too high.

The daughter of the late John Barrymore, the bride wore a black velvet dress and a matching velvet bonnet which was tied under her chin.

City Magistrate Samuel Cooper, who performed the marriage ceremony, waited for an hour before the couple arrived for what had been scheduled as a noon wedding at a Newark lawyer's office.

The new Mrs. Wilcox gave her age in her marriage license as 29 and her address as New York City.

28 Die In Crash Of British Plane

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—With one engine dead, a British airliner hurtled out of a mist over a London suburb today, skimmed the tops of several houses and plunged into a brick garden wall, killing all but one of the 29 persons aboard.

Two Americans were killed in the crash. They were identified as Lt. and Mrs. Thomas Karr. Karr was a U. S. Air Force officer based in the Azores.

The liner was a two-engined British European Airways Dakota. It was trying to get back to its home base at Northolt Airport when it crashed at Mill Hill, a middle class residential neighborhood.

It crumpled into a garden of one of the houses, flipped on its back, exploded and burned. A witness said the plane looked like a "big ball of fire."

The only survivor, a steward, was flung 100 yards. Besides the crew of five, there were 15 men passengers, eight women and an infant.

Only a few minutes before the crash the plane had taken off for Glasgow, Scotland. Then its captain radioed that he was turning back to Northolt Airport.

Hurricane Hits Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 18 (AP) — A small but vicious tropical hurricane buffeted Miami with slashing winds up to 125 miles an hour tonight, then swirled on northward toward Palm Beach and the Lake Okeechobee area.

First reports indicated the city, buffeted by the screeching winds and drenched by an accompanying downpour, had escaped extensive damage, except for many broken power lines, uprooted trees, toppled radio masts and, in some cases, shattered windows.

Both towers of radio station WQAM, owned by the Miami Herald, collapsed. One was 400 feet high, the other 275 feet.

Fort Lauderdale, next major city in the hurricane's path, reported winds up to 75 miles an hour as the storm center approached there.

At Pompano Beach, 10 miles north of Fort Lauderdale, electric service was restored about midnight (EST) after the town had been in darkness for two and a half hours.

It was too early to predict damage to Florida's 100,000,000-box orange and grapefruit crop.

The Weather Bureau said if the storm continues its present path up the east coast greatest danger will be to the rich Indian River citrus district in the Fort Pierce-Stuart area.

Some wind and water damage was likely to the 125,000 bushel avacado crop, mainly in Dade (Miami) County, and 13,000 acres of vegetables in the Lake Okeechobee and east coast districts.

Mines Sink 2 More U. S. Navy Ships

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Navy announced today the sinking of two more U. S. minesweepers by mines in Korean waters, with a casualty toll of one dead, 12 missing and 79 injured.

The two naval vessels, the Pirate and the Pledge, were lost Oct. 12 off the port of Wonsan. The sinkings brought to five the number of Navy ships either sunk or damaged by enemy mines in Korean naval operations.

The 185-foot minesweepers struck separate mines barely six minutes apart while engaged in sweeping operations off Wonsan. Survivors were picked up by the minesweepers Endicott and Incredible under the fire of shore batteries on enemy-held islands off Wonsan, and taken to hospitals in Pusan.

Brannan Sees Food Price Rise Continuing

CINCINNATI, Oct. 17 (AP) — The Secretary of Agriculture today predicted continued rising food costs for several months but said the nation's "superb food production" will make controls unnecessary "at this time."

Secretary Brannan, speaking at a convention of the National Association of Food Chains, pleaded for Americans "to share our abundance" with other countries to help the nation's foreign policy.

South Korean Units 8 Miles From Capital

Hundreds Of Reds Lay Down Arms

TOKYO, Wednesday, Oct. 18 (AP) — South Korean and American troops raced each other for the Red capital of Pyongyang today. South Korean advance units were reported only eight miles away this morning.

South of Pyongyang, advance units of the U. S. First Cavalry were reported this morning within 14 miles of the capital.

Organized resistance on the road to the Red capital appeared ended. The climax to the 15-week-old war seemed near at hand. U. S. and South Korean columns sped forward on all fronts.

Hundreds of Red troops, ordered to make a death-stand defense of Pyongyang, downed their arms. Advancing U. S. columns sped past huge piles of abandoned supplies, arms and ammunition, field dispatches said.

Red Leaders May Have Fled

Communist Chieftain Kim Il Sung and other leaders of his collapsing Pyongyang government may have fled to the Manchurian border or to a mountain hideout near it, some high American army officers and Korean civilian sources believe.

As the massive United Nations breakthrough drive gathered momentum, the South Korean Capital Division and elements of other Republican troops captured the twin industrial cities of Hamhung and Hungnam on the east coast. Mopping-up operations were in progress in the two cities, 110 miles south of the Manchurian border, Eighth Army headquarters said.

On the west coast the veteran U. S. 24th division, after rolling 78 miles in 24 hours, was given the important mission of clearing Chinnampo, Pyongyang's port 27 air miles southwest of the Red capital.

The main drive was for Pyongyang, however. High military commanders considered that with the fall of the Red capital the organized fighting phase of the Korea war would end.

Tedious Mopup Expected

The South Korean First Division, led by Gen. Paik Sun Yu — himself a native of Pyongyang — was in the vanguard of the advance on the North Korean seat of government.

Racing to beat the steamroller U. S. First Cavalry Division, the veteran Republican division pushed ahead 30 miles throughout Tuesday to within 12 miles of Pyongyang after dark.

NPA To Tighten Rubber Conservation Order

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP) —The National Production Authority, dissatisfied with earlier efforts to conserve rubber, today announced it will issue shortly a sharper order to curtail usage by tire and other rubber manufacturers.

The order will limit the total amount of natural rubber consumed in November and December, as well as the amount of total new synthetic and natural, NPA Administrator William H. Harrison said.

His statement followed a meeting with a rubber manufacturers advisory committee, a group represent-in about 90 per cent of the country's entire output of rubber products.

Student Says Dr. Seagrave 'Took Advantage Of Nurses'

The nurse, a Shan student named Ma Aye Mya, appeared as a government witness before the special tribunal trying the famed "Burma Surgeon." She told the court Seagrave was not "the benevolent old gentleman he is popularly supposed" and that he "took advantage of his nurses."

Seagrave has pleaded innocent to four charges, the chief of which is that he aided the rebel Karen tribesmen who are fighting the Burmese government for an autonomous state. Conviction for high treason in Burma carries the death penalty.

The nurse said she and four other nurses left the hospital at Namkham because Seagrave suspected they were government spies. Two other nurses, she said, were dismissed when the American charged them with having improper relations with government officers.

She denied that she ever submitted to Seagrave but declared the famous surgeon once tried to proposition her.

Scientist Questions That H-Bomb Could Be Used To Destroy Mankind

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP)—An atomic scientist questioned today that a hydrogen bomb could be rigged to destroy all human life on earth with death dust. But he added:

"It is possible, however, that the vast majority of the race can be killed off in this way, although a full-scale effort by a major country over many years would be required."

Dr. James Arnold, physical chemist of the Institute for Nuclear Studies, University of Chicago, expressed this view in the Bulletin of the atomic scientists.

Some other scientists have contended it is technically feasible to construct a weapon that would spread lethal radioactive dust over the face of the earth. They estimate that somewhere between 500 and 10,000 tons of heavy hydrogen would be necessary for this explosion. The neutrons released from the heavy hydrogen would then radioactivate a special metal casing and hurl it into the atmosphere in the form of fine radioactive dust that would spread around the earth with the

World Medical Association Condemns Mercy Killings

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP) — The World Medical Association voted today to condemn mercy killings—euthanasia—after two physicians declared "many a doctor" is doing it now.

Dr. S. G. Sen, of India, and Dr. E. A. Gregg, of Great Britain, said many doctors at some time have used drugs to speed the death of incurable patients suffering great pain.

But Dr. Marcel Poumailloux, of France, declared "I lost my own mother by a terrible cancer lasting for weeks and weeks, and none of my colleagues thought of shortening her life to alleviate her suffering."

He said euthanasia would "open the door to all possible crimes and criminal practices."

The resolution calls euthanasia "contrary to the public interest and to medical principles as well as to natural and civil rights." It recommends that National Medical Associations in each country "condemn the practice of euthanasia under any circumstances." The WMA is composed of national medical associations in 41 countries.

U. S. Promises France Over $1,800,000,000 In Arms Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The United States promised France today it will provide from $1,800,000,000 to $2,400,000,000 in American arms and money to French forces in Europe and Indo-China by the end of 1951.

An informed government official said this arrangement was worked out during conferences with the French defense minister and finance minister which ended today.

The money would come from the total of approximately $6,000,000,000 which Congress already has appropriated to rearm nearly 20 friendly countries against the threat of Communist aggression.

France will get from 30 to 40 per cent of this total, this official said. The exact amount will be determined later after further detailed discussions between the United States and its 14 Atlantic pact allies.

In a formal announcement, the State Department said it will make available a fund of $200,000,000 before June 30 to help French factories turn out a biger flow of military equipment. The formal announcement did not mention the larger sum promised.

A French spokesman told reporters the promised American aid is intended to equip 10 French divisions on the European continent by the end of next year.

"The United States government has expressed the view that a military effort of the general magnitude and character planned by the French government would be a vital contribution to the defensive strength of the North Atlantic area," the State Department said.

This statement reflected approval by Secretary of State Acheson, Defense Secretary Marshall and Treasury Secretary Snyder of the military budget the French have been discussing with them since Friday.

The announcement said the "major part" of funds allocated for military aid to the Far East area has been assigned to French and associated troops fighting the Communists in Indo-China.

Quints Will Wear High Heels To N. Y.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 17 (AP)—The Dionne quintuplets tonight prepared to leave for their first trip to New York. They'll be wearing high-heeled shoes for the first time.

The five-day visit will be highlighted by an appearance Thursday night at the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation dinner. The quints, now 16 years old, will sing in French and English and share the spotlight with Vice-President Barkley and Gov. Dewey.

The quints have yet to wear lipstick in public. Papa Dionne said tonight they haven't asked his permission to do so when in New York. But if they do, he won't object — providing they are "reasonable."

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 17 (AP) — Actress Diana Barrymore married her leading man, Robert W. Wilcox, today and announced there would be no honeymoon. Prices, she said, are too high.

City Magistrate Samuel Cooper, who performed the marriage ceremony, waited for an hour before the couple arrived for what had been scheduled as a noon wedding at a Newark lawyer's office.

The new Mrs. Wilcox gave her age in her marriage license as 29 and her address as New York City.

28 Die In Crash Of British Plane

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—With one engine dead, a British airliner hurtled out of a mist over a London suburb today, skimmed the tops of several houses and plunged into a brick garden wall, killing all but one of the 29 persons aboard.

Two Americans were killed in the crash. They were identified as Lt. and Mrs. Thomas Karr. Karr was a U. S. Air Force officer based in the Azores.

The liner was a two-engined British European Airways Dakota. It was trying to get back to its home base at Northolt Airport when it crashed at Mill Hill, a middle class residential neighborhood.

It crumpled into a garden of one of the houses, flipped on its back, exploded and burned. A witness said the plane looked like a "big ball of fire."

The only survivor, a steward, was flung 100 yards. Besides the crew of five, there were 15 men passengers, eight women and an infant.

Only a few minutes before the crash the plane had taken off for Glasgow, Scotland. Then its captain radioed that he was turning back to Northolt Airport.

Israeli Parliament Votes For New Election

Ben-Gurion resigned Sunday night after three religious bloc members of his government had told him they were withdrawing in opposition to a recent cabinet shift proposed to grapple with Israel's financial problem.

The outgoing Premier, who headed a four-party coalition, suggested that eight members of his cabinet be retained as a caretaker government. This failed to obtain a vote of confidence.

Hurricane Hits Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 18 (AP) — A small but vicious tropical hurricane buffeted Miami with slashing winds up to 125 miles an hour tonight, then swirled on northward toward Palm Beach and the Lake Okeechobee area.

First reports indicated the city, buffeted by the screeching winds and drenched by an accompanying downpour, had escaped extensive damage, except for many broken power lines, uprooted trees, toppled radio masts and, in some cases, shattered windows.

Both towers of radio station WQAM, owned by the Miami Herald, collapsed. One was 400 feet high, the other 275 feet.

Fort Lauderdale, next major city in the hurricane's path, reported winds up to 75 miles an hour as the storm center approached there.

At Pompano Beach, 10 miles north of Fort Lauderdale, electric service was restored about midnight (EST) after the town had been in darkness for two and a half hours.

It was too early to predict damage to Florida's 100,000,000-box orange and grapefruit crop.

The Weather Bureau said if the storm continues its present path up the east coast greatest danger will be to the rich Indian River citrus district in the Fort Pierce-Stuart area.

Some wind and water damage was likely to the 125,000 bushel avacado crop, mainly in Dade (Miami) County, and 13,000 acres of vegetables in the Lake Okeechobee and east coast districts.

Mines Sink 2 More U. S. Navy Ships

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Navy announced today the sinking of two more U. S. minesweepers by mines in Korean waters, with a casualty toll of one dead, 12 missing and 79 injured.

The two naval vessels, the Pirate and the Pledge, were lost Oct. 12 off the port of Wonsan. The sinkings brought to five the number of Navy ships either sunk or damaged by enemy mines in Korean naval operations.

The 185-foot minesweepers struck separate mines barely six minutes apart while engaged in sweeping operations off Wonsan. Survivors were picked up by the minesweepers Endicott and Incredible under the fire of shore batteries on enemy-held islands off Wonsan, and taken to hospitals in Pusan.

Brannan Sees Food Price Rise Continuing

CINCINNATI, Oct. 17 (AP) — The Secretary of Agriculture today predicted continued rising food costs for several months but said the nation's "superb food production" will make controls unnecessary "at this time."

Secretary Brannan, speaking at a convention of the National Association of Food Chains, pleaded for Americans "to share our abundance" with other countries to help the nation's foreign policy.

South Korean Units 8 Miles From Capital

Hundreds Of Reds Lay Down Arms

TOKYO, Wednesday, Oct. 18 (AP) — South Korean and American troops raced each other for the Red capital of Pyongyang today. South Korean advance units were reported only eight miles away this morning.

South of Pyongyang, advance units of the U. S. First Cavalry were reported this morning within 14 miles of the capital.

Organized resistance on the road to the Red capital appeared ended. The climax to the 15-week-old war seemed near at hand. U. S. and South Korean columns sped forward on all fronts.

Hundreds of Red troops, ordered to make a death-stand defense of Pyongyang, downed their arms. Advancing U. S. columns sped past huge piles of abandoned supplies, arms and ammunition, field dispatches said.

Red Leaders May Have Fled

Communist Chieftain Kim Il Sung and other leaders of his collapsing Pyongyang government may have fled to the Manchurian border or to a mountain hideout near it, some high American army officers and Korean civilian sources believe.

As the massive United Nations breakthrough drive gathered momentum, the South Korean Capital Division and elements of other Republican troops captured the twin industrial cities of Hamhung and Hungnam on the east coast. Mopping-up operations were in progress in the two cities, 110 miles south of the Manchurian border, Eighth Army headquarters said.

On the west coast the veteran U. S. 24th division, after rolling 78 miles in 24 hours, was given the important mission of clearing Chinnampo, Pyongyang's port 27 air miles southwest of the Red capital.

The main drive was for Pyongyang, however. High military commanders considered that with the fall of the Red capital the organized fighting phase of the Korea war would end.

Tedious Mopup Expected

The South Korean First Division, led by Gen. Paik Sun Yu — himself a native of Pyongyang — was in the vanguard of the advance on the North Korean seat of government.

Racing to beat the steamroller U. S. First Cavalry Division, the veteran Republican division pushed ahead 30 miles throughout Tuesday to within 12 miles of Pyongyang after dark.

NPA To Tighten Rubber Conservation Order

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP) —The National Production Authority, dissatisfied with earlier efforts to conserve rubber, today announced it will issue shortly a sharper order to curtail usage by tire and other rubber manufacturers.

The order will limit the total amount of natural rubber consumed in November and December, as well as the amount of total new synthetic and natural, NPA Administrator William H. Harrison said.

His statement followed a meeting with a rubber manufacturers advisory committee, a group representin about 90 per cent of the country's entire output of rubber products.

Student Says Dr. Seagrave 'Took Advantage Of Nurses'

The nurse, a Shan student named Ma Aye Mya, appeared as a government witness before the special tribunal trying the famed "Burma Surgeon." She told the court Seagrave was not "the benevolent old gentleman he is popularly supposed" and that he "took advantage of his nurses."

Seagrave has pleaded innocent to four charges, the chief of which is that he aided the rebel Karen tribesmen who are fighting the Burmese government for an autonomous state. Conviction for high treason in Burma carries the death penalty.

The nurse said she and four other nurses left the hospital at Namkham because Seagrave suspected they were government spies. Two other nurses, she said, were dismissed when the American charged them with having improper relations with government officers.

She denied that she ever submitted to Seagrave but declared the famous surgeon once tried to proposition her.

Scientist Questions That H-Bomb Could Be Used To Destroy Mankind

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP)—An atomic scientist questioned today that a hydrogen bomb could be rigged to destroy all human life on earth with death dust. But he added:

"It is possible, however, that the vast majority of the race can be killed off in this way, although a full-scale effort by a major country over many years would be required."

Dr. James Arnold, physical chemist of the Institute for Nuclear Studies, University of Chicago, expressed this view in the Bulletin of the atomic scientists.

Some other scientists have contended it is technically feasible to construct a weapon that would spread lethal radioactive dust over the face of the earth. They estimate that somewhere between 500 and 10,000 tons of heavy hydrogen would be necessary for this explosion. The neutrons released from the heavy hydrogen would then radioactivate a special metal casing and hurl it into the atmosphere in the form of fine radioactive dust that would spread around the earth with the [illegible]

World Medical Association Condemns Mercy Killings

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP) — The World Medical Association voted today to condemn mercy killings—euthanasia—after two physicians declared "many a doctor" is doing it now.

Dr. S. G. Sen, of India, and Dr. E. A. Gregg, of Great Britain, said many doctors at some time have used drugs to speed the death of incurable patients suffering great pain.

But Dr. Marcel Poumailloux, of France, declared "I lost my own mother by a terrible cancer lasting for weeks and weeks, and none of my colleagues thought of shortening her life to alleviate her suffering."

He said euthanasia would "open the door to all possible crimes and criminal practices."

The resolution calls euthanasia "contrary to the public interest and to medical principles as well as to natural and civil rights." It recommends that National Medical Associations in each country "condemn the practice of euthanasia under any circumstances." The WMA is composed of national medical associations in 41 countries.

Farm Problems Aired At Parley

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 17 (AP) — Farm experts said today that Americans needn't worry about food supplies in the event of war, but inflation is another story.

They gave their views at an all-day conference sponsored by the University of Maryland extension service for farmers, farm organizations and agencies.

About 250 attended for the discussions of mobilization and its effects on Maryland agriculture.

Great strides have been made by agriculture since the outbreak of World War II, they were told, and the general outlook for food supplies is good — for war or peace.

This view was tempered by warnings that manpower and farm machinery would provide farmers with their greatest problems if war should come.

One of the speakers in an afternoon symposium was Col. Henry C. Stanwood, Maryland director of Selective Service. He said, "we do not look with too much enthusiasm on the occupational deferment of young men under 26.

"We're going to have to be shown why young men between the ages of 19 and 25 should not be selected.".

Stanwood said that for a farm worker to be deferred from the draft he must be a full-time farmer, irreplaceable by a person of equal skill, and so essential to his occupation that his absence would result in a marked loss of production.

U. N. Flag Banned

The City Council, elected on a nonpartisan basis, voted last night to ban the U. N. flag so long as "Russian Communists" remain in the United Nations Assembly.

Lane Spent $40,000 More Than Mahoney

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17 (AP) — Official campaign expense statements filed today showed that Gov. Lane spent almost $40,000 more than George P. Mahoney in last month's primary.

Lane's organization spent $137,748 to win the Democratic nomination for governor over Mahoney and three other opponents.

Mahoney's campaigners reported $98,725 in expenses.

Mahoney spent $24,350 in Baltimore City to $20,521 put out by Lane. Mahoney carried five of the city's six legislative districts.

Lane backers, on the other hand, spent more money in the counties, whose unit votes gave Lane the nomination even though Mahoney received more popular votes from the state as a whole.

Md., Va., D. C. Agree On Defense Policies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP) — Civil defense officials of Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia agreed today on policies for mutual aid in event of enemy attacks on metropolitan Washington.

The closed conference of some 41 officials was aimed at coordinating the work already done individually by nearby Virginia and Maryland communities with the district program.

Further details will be discussed at a Nov. 10 meeting of Gen. Jacob L. Devers, retired, of Fairfax County, Virginia, newly-named defense coordinator for Northern Virginia; Maryland Defense Director D. G. McIntosh, and District Director John E. Fondahl.

Scientist Says Russia Uses Atom For Heat, Electricity

MOSCOW, Oct. 17 (AP) — Soviet scientists have found a way to convert atomic energy directly into heat or electricity, Prof. V. Golubstov wrote in the Literary Gazette today.

Golubstov, an atomic specialist, declared the Russians are far ahead of Americans in the development of peaceful uses for atomic energy. The Russians were described as pacemakers also in the application of hydro-electric energy and in the development of gas turbines which will work on hard fuels.

"Soviet scientists have found other technological schemes and other technical possibilities for the peaceful use of atomic energy—transforming it directly into heat or electricity." Golubstov wrote. "Soviet science has progressed by a great margin ahead of foreign science in the field of atomic energy."

Speaking of his observations at the world power conference in London recently, Golubstov said American, Swedish and other foreign scientists appeared to be thinking of setting up atomic boilers to replace existing steam boilers in electric power stations.

He said this would be like installing a powerful gasoline motor in a stagecoach.

Golubstov wrote that the United States had failed to progress substantially on peacetime uses for atomic energy because it is concentrating on military uses.

Many Stores Still Without Baking Soda

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—Many stores across the country still have no baking soda to sell, but supplies should be close to normal again in a few weeks, trade authorities said today.

The shortage of baking soda (bicarbonate of soda) was a result of a strike which idled several of the nation's major plants supplying soda ash, an important industrial chemical from which household soda is made. That strike ended late last month.

Nation's Chief

In his first report on his Wake Island conference with Gen. MacArthur, Mr. Truman pledged United States support of all Asiatic nations in their defense against attacks by Russia or its Communist satellites with these word:

"We know that the peoples of Asia cherish their freedom and independence.

"We sympathize with that desire and will help them to attain and defend their independence. Our entire history proclaims our policy on that point. Our men are fighting now in Asia to help secure the freedom and independence of a small nation which was brutally attacked."

Bread Preserved By Atomic Rays Lasts Months

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., (AP) — A loaf of bread that remains fresh for months after treatment with atomic rays was described to the National Academy of Sciences.

The atomic preserver will work for any kind of bread. No changes in baking are needed.

The loaf is wrapped in cellophane so as to be air tight. It is placed for a moment in a beam of nearly a million volt power. After that you can put the loaf in the bread box or on the shelf.

No refrigeration is needed and ordinary house temperatures do not spoil the bread.

The bread is one of several foodstuffs preserved for a year by similar experiments in the General Electric Research Laboratory. The work was reported by Elliott J. Lawton, a scientist in the Z-ray division of the laboratory.

This atomic experiment is part of a study of the possibility of sterilizing food without the high heat now used. Heat caused changes in food.

The atomic rays sterilize with a temperature rise of only two or three degrees. After the atomic bath, it is always necessary to keep the food away from the air. This is done by using cellophane wrappers. Other wrappers are possible.

There was no change in the taste of the bread. Raisins, honey and blueberries also were preserved for about a year with no taste change.

Trouble In An Egg

Many an egg, when broken, has turned out to be filled with trouble. There is trouble brewing for the farm price support program, and part of it comes from the powdered proteins of eggs broken long ago. The government buys eggs not to eat them but to keep the prices up, has been doing so for a long time. Some of these are fresh, others powdered; the government at present owns about $115,000,000 worth of dried eggs. These are not held against need but simply to keep them off the market.

Lately it has been disclosed that large quantities of dried eggs are being imported from China for sale to bakeries, which can buy them more cheaply than American dried eggs. It has been pointed out before that the importation of potatoes from Canada, while the government is buying potatoes to support the market, amounts to a subsidization of Canadian potato owners out of the United States Treasury. In the case of the eggs, insult is added to injury by the fact that they come from Communist China, whose expressions of regard for American business are not translatable.

Is the baker, whose customers castigate him daily for the prices of his goods, to be blamed for buying eggs as cheaply as possible? Is the importer, whose wage and other overhead costs now go up twice a year instead of only once, to be blamed for making a dollar where he can? Is the government, seeking to aid the toiling farmer, to be blamed for making the price of the farmer's eggs so high that eggs shipped all the way from China can successfully compete for his market?

Strength In Arms

While Communist forces in Korea were enjoying victory after victory during the summer, a widespread supposition arose that these successes were to be put down in support of the doctrine that vastly superior numbers may overwhelm any opponent on the battlefield. It was known that the Korea Reds had a superiority in tanks and for a time in artillery, but it appeared that the chief element of their strength lay in seemingly inexhaustible reserves of men to be thrown into the lines to replace losses. It has often been argued that the many with unlimited numbers of men in the end is invincible, and it appeared that the United Nations forces would simply have to wait for the Red manpower to run out.

Now the appraisal of equipment captured when the Red armies south of the 38th Parallel melted away has caused a reversal of this notion. Intelligence officers are quoted as saying that the North Korean army had enough fire power for a force three times its size by World War II standards, that it had more automatic weapons, in relation to the numbers of men, than any comparable armed unit of any nation in that war. This puts a different light on the campaign.

Later appraisals, when more time has elapsed and more details have been learned, may change the picture again. The influence of air and naval strength is yet to be reckoned. But it now appears that the Korea record will go down in the military histories in support not of the doctrine of vast numbers of men but of the doctrine of maximum armament.

Notions About America

The obvious material prosperity of this country gives rise to the opinion, among foreigners, that material success is the only motivating force which exists here.

A speaker before the recent World Jewish Congress in New York declared that there are few states in the world about which there are so many misconceptions as the United States. The great ideals underlying American life and the humanitarian motives of its leaders are virtually unknown abroad, he went on to say.

Perhaps too much emphasis is laid on the material benefits of democracy when its advantages are described, both by others and by ourselves. Our standard of living, about which we publicly boast, covers other matters than plumbing and automobiles. Our ethical standards, too, are high, in spite of certain widely advertised deviations from them. Such projects as the Community Chest, with its nation-wide support, our great philanthropic foundations, and our well-supported museums and libraries should receive more international publicity. Some of the misconceptions abroad may be due to wrong emphasis on our part.

Around The Neck

The people who make neckties say that the history of neckwear goes back to man's beginnings. It seems enough to go back to the origin of the cravat in 17th century France, when the French made something of the bits of colored cloth worn around the neck by Croatian soldiers. It's hard to say whether the Croats or the French should be blamed.

Perhaps credit should go to Charles II of England, who took the cravat to his native land. There it survived although the French Revolution almost finished it on the Continent. During the revolutionary period it was as much as a man's life was worth to be seen wearing one. Sometimes it still is.

Yet it was the French who thought of pulling a tie tight enough to cause the face to flush. Small thanks are due them for that. They also invented a cravat especially loose for men who liked to eat in comfort. What happened to that?

Necktie people are authorities for the statement that 85 per cent of all ties are bought by women and less than one per cent are returned or exchanged.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

More Peptic Ulcer Remedies

IT IS DIFFICULT to estimate how many persons in the United States suffer from stomach ulcers. Judging by our mail, and from the amount of antiacids sold in this county, there must be a large number. According to some estimates, at least five per cent of our population are victims.

There never has been a shortage of remedies and their multiplicity stems from the numerous theories as to the cause. Considerable controversy exists as to why a small part of the stomach wall or intestine gives way to form an ulcer. Some believe that the craters develop because the stomach churns too vigorously or contains too much acid or peptic enzymes. Others blame the blood vessels that supply the involved area with nourishment and assert that these channels are blocked through spasm or clot formation. The finger of guilt also has been pointed at the nervous system, allergy, and focal infection. Of all the possibilities, hyperacidity and gastrointestinal irritability are the most logical and are more or less accepted by the majority of physicians.

As a result, most medications are directed toward quieting the gastric pouch and reducing the acid. There are any number of antacids on the market, varying from the old reliable Sippy powders to aluminum gels and the more modern hydrolysates and ion exchange resins. To be most effective they must be taken at hourly intervals as they usually neutralized gastric acidity for short periods only. Complete neutralization rarely occurs, even though the antacid administered daily is 25 to 50 times as much as is needed to neutralize the total production of hydrochloric acid.

There are well known drawbacks and it is now becoming apparent that neutralizing the acid that has already been secreted is like closing the barn door after the horse has escaped. It is far more desirable to prevent the secretion of the acid. This is the basis behind the use of certain chemicals that depress the secreting mechanism. The drug treatment is preferred because it is simple and does not subject the individual to the usual risks of surgery. The best products for this purpose are extracts from the wall of the small intestine or other parts of the body. Such substances include enterogastrone, urogastrone, and histaminase, which received so much publicity in the last few years. But they have not proved practical; they are ineffective unless injected directly into a vein and none is pure enough to be used in this manner over a long period.

The acid secretions also can be curbed by using the drug, astropine. This is an old remedy that several decades ago was incorporated into the treatment of ulcer. But the dose needed to suppress the stomach secretions also affects the salivary glands, causing uncomfortable mouth dryness.

Furthermore, the compound dilates the pupils of the eyes and leads to difficulty in reading fine print. One of the latest remedies is a related drug, banthine, which is said to have an atropine-like effect on the stomach, with less tendency to disturb the mouth and eyes.

TOMORROW: Hunters, beware of rabbit fever (tularemia).

EAR DROPS

Mrs. E. writes: I dropped in to see a friend recently and was startled when I saw her putting drops into the ear of one of her children. I thought this practice was discontinued years ago but said nothing to her. If it is dangerous, I'll speak to her about it.

Drops are still used but the practice is not as common as in the past. The physician sometimes prescribes sweet oil to keep the wax soft and other products to ease the distress of earache.

STANDING AND VEIN WEAKNESS

M. R. writes: My husband is engaged in an occupation that requires continual standing. As a result, he is developing varicose veins. I would like to know the physiological cause of this condition.

REPLY

Varicose veins are caused by an inherent weakness of the walls of the veins. In your husband's case, this weakness became more evident after he spent so much time on his feet. Further, once a vein begins to enlarge, gravity has a tendency to spread the valves apart and the ensuing "leakage" aggravates the condition.

Taxpayers Pay For Honeymoon Of Michigan Congressman's Daughter; John L. Lewis Cuing Bridges On Foreign Policy; Ghost Of "Operation 23" At Work

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The taxpayers don't know it, but they are paying for the honeymoon of a Congressman's daughter. She is Mrs. Jules De Porre, daughter of Democrat Congressman Louis Rabaut of Grosse Pointe Park, Mich.

Carolyn was the last in a line of daughters who worked as Congressman Rabaut's secretary. But she quit to get married shortly after Easter, and became Mrs. Jules De Porre on July 8. Despite this, she has continued to draw $643.33 a month.

While the Congressman's daughter draws her salary, her job is taken by Marion B. Lacey, who is paid $331.71 per month by the House Appropriations Committee. Very conveniently, the committee "loaned" her to Rabaut to handle "committee business." She is not on his regular pay roll.

When queried by this column, Rabaut explained that his daughter never quit working for him, but just shifted to his Detroit office. Actually, this explanation doesn't hold up. For the Congressman didn't open an office in Detroit until Congress recessed the last week of September. Furthermore, when the Congressman takes a trip to Detroit, his office help in Washington complain that he scribbles letters in longhand and sends them back to Washington to be typed, thus making a mystery as to what his newly married daughter is supposed to be doing for him in his Detroit office. A further check by this column in Detroit indicates that Mrs. De Porre hasn't been working for her father as his Congressional secretary at all.

Mrs. De Porre also told this column that she returned to work here between Easter and her July 8 wedding day, but a check at the House Office Building revealed this was not true.

The real truth is that Congressman Rabaut gave his daughter a $643.33-per-month wedding gift—at the taxpayers' expense.

John L. Lewis's Friend

It's no secret that New Hampshire's Senator Styles Bridges, the No. 2 Republican of the Senate, was paid $35,000 a year as trustee for John L. Lewis's Miners' Welfare Fund. In addition, it also looks as if the shaggy-browed Lewis has been giving cues to Bridges regarding foreign policy.

For several months, Bridges has been working closely with the State Department and moving into Senator Vandenberg's shoes as the GOP spokesman on foreign affairs—second only to Senator Taft in Republican influence. But, suddenly, Bridges lashed out with a vitriolic attack against the State Department.

This attack, it now develops, was not prepared in Bridges' office at all, but by John L. Lewis's "public relations" firm, the Allied Syndicate.

Tip-off came when the Bridges statements were delivered by mistake to the wrong part of the Capitol. A press attendant called Bridges' office to straighten out the error, but no one in the Senator's office seemed to know about it. They didn't even know that he was making a statement on foreign policy.

Later, Arthur Reilly, a former John L. Lewis press-relations man, straightened out the matter of the misplaced Bridges press releases.

Reilly, after serving in United Mine Workers headquarters, transferred to the Washington office of the Allied Syndicate, which works for Lewis. The Bridges statement, incidentally, was prepared while the Senator was out of the city.

So it looks as if the $35,000 salary paid by John L. was producing more from Senator Bridges than his services as trustee on the Miners' Pension Fund.

The admirals' propaganda outfit, "Operation 23," was supposed to have been abolished after the B-36 feud of last fall. It was the cause of a bitter battle between the Air Force and the Navy, with the result that forthright Secretary of the Navy Matthews dispersed the naval officers in charge.

However, it now develops that the ghost of "Operation 23" is still haunting the Air Force. The same old anti-Air Force stories are being leaked to the press. In fact, Navy propagandists, believe it or not, are spreading the same identical stories as the communists about the air force; namely, that U. S. airplanes have been killing North Korean women and children.

Actually, B-29 raids in Korea have been so accurate that they de-molished the Woosang armament plants without even touching the rows of workers' houses alongside.

Some admirals are also coming out into the open with the same views that got them into trouble over unification. Rear Adm. Stuart Ingersoll, for instance, harangued a recent conference of American mayors on the Navy's success in Korea, as if the Air Force did not exist. "One of the main lessons of the Korean war," declared Admiral Ingersoll, "was the great value of inherent mobility of the Navy forces."

The Admiral pointed out that the Navy has sailed up and down the Korean Coast bombarding Communist positions, forgetting to mention that there was no enemy air force to interfere with the Navy.

GOP Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon had scornfully dubbed the bill the "Fort Des Moines steal," but GOP Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper needed the bill to help his re-election fight, and, though Hickenlooper is a bitter foe of the administration, while Morse is a personal friend of Truman's, the President sided with his GOP enemy against his GOP friend.

Morse opposed the bill on the ground that it was a pure political grab.

"There are too many members of Congress making a political grab bag of the reservoirs of surplus property," the Oregon Senator maintained. "The bill before us reeks with Iowa politics."

"Where the carcasses lie," commented Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, sadly, "there the vultures love to feed."

Morse even carried his opposition to the point of writing Secretary of the Army Pace: "The time to stop a raid on the federal treasury of giveaway camp sites is right now."

And to President Truman, he wrote: "For two years certain politicians from Iowa have tried to put through the Hickenlooper bill. The fact is, Mr. President, the whole thing smells. I think you should veto it for the healthy political effect it would have upon those members of Congress who seem to think that our supplies of surplus property should be used as a grab bag."

Mr. Truman, however, turned a deaf ear on his GOP friend, and signed the bill that helped his GOP enemy.

NOTE—A prominent Iowa banker, Van Vechten Shaffer, president of the Guaranty Bank and Trust of Des Moines, wrote Hickenlooper regarding the Fort Des Moines bill: "Haven't you learned that nothing is for free? If the Government of the United States through the Senate is fool enough to give us Fort Des Moines, what are they giving Washington and Oregon, Arkansas and Florida? And if you are not preventing such ridiculous handouts, you ought to be. This kind of monkey business does not make votes even in an election year, and we are not stupid enough in Iowa to believe we don't pay one way or another for the handouts."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Who's Fighting Taft?

I HAVE BEFORE ME a document entitled "Taft Himself—His Record Is Against Him," issued by the Democratic National Committee, publicity division.

I also have a document entitled: "The Record of Robert Alphonso Taft," issued by the United Labor League of Ohio.

These two documents are identical except for one introductory page and an omission. I am told that these books were originally put out by the CIO-PAC under the title of "A Speaker's Handbook on Robert Alphonso Taft. His Record Is Against Him." The original book was published by Ohio CIO Political Action Committee, 218 East State Street, Columbus 15, Ohio.

So here we have the Democratic National Committee taking a CIO book and making it a Democratic document. In the introduction to the issue by the Democratic National Committee no credit is given to the original authors, the CIO.

The United Labor League of Ohio version omits this world-shaking paragraph, which does, however, appear in the Democratic National Committee book:

"As a baby, Robert Alphonso was greedy for oatmeal. His nurse tried to curb his appetite by giving him plain milk instead of the rich cream served at the Taft breakfast table. When that didn't work, the nurse held out on the sugar."

So, from it the CIO Democrats reach this Freudian conclusion:

"These tactics must have made a deep impression on the young heir. Fifty years later he was using them himself. When he found he could not block welfare measures in the Senate, Taft tried to take the good parts out of them. So he proposed housing programs with no public housing in them, a health plan with no general health program in it, farm bills with no protection for the farmers' market prices, and FEPC bills with no provisions for enforcement."

Note the use of the word, heir. The idea is to show that Taft is a rich man. I do not know what he inherited from his father, but Franklin D. Roosevelt was an heir; so is Averell Harriman, who addresses labor conventions. I am willing to bet anyone that Harriman inherited more than all the Taft heirs put together, his father having been a railroad tycoon when there was money in railroads.

Then, these CIO liars try to give the impression that Taft is a bigot who hates foreigners, immigrants and so on. This is the way they put the following idea forward in a serious campaign:

"As a youngster, Robert Alphonso went to the Philippines, where his father was governor-general. One day while swimming he was stung by a jellyfish — a Philippine jellyfish, of course. This, too, must have made a deep impression on Taft. It may have been the start of his fear, distrust and dislike of foreigners, of immigrants, of all things that are not demonstrably third generation American."

This jellyfish episode is supposed to be taken from an article by Dr. Felix Morley. It is one of those human interest episodes that journalists employ like paprika in a goulash, often to hide the lack of vitamins. But the CIO Democrats use this reed to hang a heavy label of anti-foreign, anti-first generation American. In Ohio, that can be important.

What are the facts? The Tafts, father William Howard, and two sons, Robert and Charles, have devoted themselves to justice for all men. It was William Howard Taft who, in 1912, as president, abrogated our commercial treaty with Czarist Russia because of their injustice to Jews. I recall, as a boy, attending a meeting in Carnegie Hall at which President Taft was extolled for this courageous act.

Robert Taft has, since early manhood, supported the Jewish Zionist cause; he has defended the Poles against the vast injustices which that nation has suffered. He was responsible for

Conferences Will Reflect Russian Policy Changes

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—From time to time the Moscow government indicates a desire to carry on "peace" conversations with the American government. Sometimes the hint is thrown out in the United Nations, and sometimes it is conveyed in private to persons prominent in this country.

The puzzle is that, with an American ambassador in Moscow all the time and with a Russian ambassador in Washington, there should be any question about means of transmitting the desires of the Kremlin.

Some of the approaches are informal and may be no more than gestures to indicate a peaceful turn in Moscow policy. One of these which occurred a few weeks ago on the night of the dinner given by Trygve Lie in New York concerned Bernard M. Baruch, elder statesman, who, as reported at that time, was seen conversing at the head table with Yakob Malik, the Russian envoy.

Mr. Baruch declined to reveal what was said either by Mr. Malik or himself. Since then another prominent American—Harold Stassen—has issued a statement declaring his desire to visit Russia. It is quite probable that Mr. Stassen will be given an opportunity to enter Russia and travel therein, but whether or not he will see the head of the government is not so certain.

Two Reasons

The Russians were especially anxious to have Mr. Baruch come to Russia because they were interested in his ideas on the development of atomic energy for peaceful uses. As far back as 1919, Lenin sought Mr. Baruch's advice on industrial development. The request was revived in later years. Mr. Baruch told friends that he could never see eye to eye with the Russians on the basic principles or fundamental approach and nothing ever came of these invitations.

A few weeks ago, when Mr. Malik inquired of Mr. Baruch why he didn't visit the Soviet Union on his trips abroad in 1948 and 1949, the latter is reported to have replied that he ddin't think the Russians wanted him. Mr. Malik countered with the suggestion that he ought to go now. But Mr. Baruch made it clear that there were two reasons why he couldn't do it—first, because he was "personna non grata" with the Washington government here, which Mr. Malik didn't take seriously, and, second, because the President is the only accredited and constitutional agent of the American government and hence the only one who could make policy.

Officials here concur in that point of view and, in fact, have not liked the idea of any personal emissaries visiting Russia who could be regarded as speaking for the government, either directly or indirectly.

One of the chief stumbling blocks, of course, to any negotiations at present is that the United States Government doesn't want to enter into any discussions with Moscow separately. The feeling is that Great Britain and France are equally concerned with any over-all settlement in Europe or Asia and that any talks should be initiated with representatives of all the major powers present.

Russian Viewpoint

The Russian viewpoint is that there should be a resumption of some talks but with it goes the suggestion that it should be a substitute for action to be taken soon to reorganize the General Assembly procedures on collective security.

It is easy to overestimate the importance of informal conversations in the corridors of U. N. meetings. Everything that a Russian representative says is likely to be looked upon as a carefully worked out program by the Kremlin itself, no matter how casual the conversation may appear to be.

For all practical purposes, it may be taken for granted that if Russian policy does change in any important fundamental, it will be reflected not in approaches to prominent Americans or in speech-making at the U. N. but in the private conferences which diplomats have from time to time with high officials of the Moscow foreign office. There are plenty of ways to talk—if there is anything important to be said. There are plenty of things that can lead to an agreement—if any important action is taken that indicates such a desire. Opportunities to collaborate between the East and West arise every day.

Military Decisions Can Have Profound Results

By MARK SULLIVAN

OUR government is just now making decisions and arrangements having to do with war—war as now going on, or more war in the future, or the prevention of war. About such military decisions there is a practically universal point of view and practice—they should be made by military heads without interference, and they should be secret if the military heads consider secrecy to be desirable, as in most cases they do. The secrecy, it is commonly conceded, should extend even to Congress, except as in some cases the military heads may consider it expedient to give carefully safeguarded information to small committees of Congress in executive sessions. The broad theory is that military decisions and arrangements should not be subject to debate in Congress or discussion by the public. But military decisions and arrangements are rarely military alone, they in many cases include or entail decisions about national policy in the broadest sense.

A classic example is the agreement made by President Roosevelt with Stalin at Yalta in 1945. By that agreement Stalin promised to help us in the war against Japan, and Roosevelt agreed that after Japan should be conquered Russia should have territory belonging to China, as well as neighboring territory and other advantages. From a strictly military point of view there was advantage for us in this, and from the same point of view there was reason for secrecy. The secrecy was rigid—not even James F. Byrnes who was at Yalta as Roosevelt's assistant, knew of the agreement until months later, after he had become Secretary of State and by search located the document of agreement in the White House.

Aided Communism

But the Yalta agreement was more than military. Whether or not Roosevelt realized it at the time, the agreement gave Russian Communism territorial and other leverage for advance in China and Asia, leverage which Russian Communism later made use of with disastrous consequences to the United States and to the world. Had the agreement not been secret, there was among our people and in Congress enough distrust of Russian Communism to have either prevented the agreement from being made or to have frustrated its consequences. Apart from distrust of Russian Communism, our people and Congress would have cried out against such an agreement as a betrayal of China, an ally already helping us in the war against Japan and for generations our friend.

In modern conditions military decisions and arrangements tend increasingly to have this doubtful nature. Made with the immediate and overt purpose of winning a battle or a war, they have profound consequences and bearings other than military. The recent decision about whether our forces should cross the boundary between South Korea and North, was made difficult because of its bearing on two considerations—in part contradictory, in part parallel—one being military victory, the other having to do with the difficult ideological conflict between Communism and resistance to it.

All this raises a question—whether in modern conditions it is practicable that a President as Commander-in-Chief should be free to make military decisions such as Roosevelt made at Yalta. To a degree, the question extends to the deference accorded a President in the conduct of foreign relations having to do with war or the possibility of it, such as is expressed in bi-partisan support by Congress.

Cites Stassen Plea

An earnest plea for greater responsibility on the part of Congress has been made by Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania and former Governor of Minnesota. It was in the radio address he made to the country August 15, about our relations with Russian Communism and the problems associated with it. In his comprehensive and thorough analysis he included a brief passage about Congress:

"Public opinion and the press should encourage Congress to exercise increasing leadership. The situation requires statesmanship of a high order in Congress. The statesmen are there and they are beginning to respond . . . I submit that under the circumstances which our country faces, the people and the press would do well to look to Congress for increasing leadership."

It will be observed that Mr. Stassen here speaks of Congress as a whole, and not of Congress as made up of parties. What he pleads for is a strong Congress regardless of party make-up. He is as far as possible from even alluding to the present campaign to elect a new Congress. It is a broader thing than that that weighs upon him. Yet what he says contains guidance for persons who wish earnestly to use their veto in the interest of the whole country.

Trouble In An Egg

Many an egg, when broken, has turned out to be filled with trouble. There is trouble brewing for the farm price support program, and part of it comes from the powdered proteins of eggs broken long ago. The government buys eggs not to eat them but to keep the prices up, has been doing so for a long time. Some of these are fresh, others powdered; the government at present owns about $115,000,000 worth of dried eggs. These are not held against need but simply to keep them off the market.

Lately it has been disclosed that large quantities of dried eggs are being imported from China for sale to bakeries, which can buy them more cheaply than American dried eggs. It has been pointed out before that the importation of potatoes from Canada, while the government is buying potatoes to support the market, amounts to a subsidization of Canadian potato owners out of the United States Treasury. In the case of the eggs, insult is added to injury by the fact that they come from Communist China, whose expressions of regard for American business are not translatable.

Is the baker, whose customers castigate him daily for the prices of his goods, to be blamed for buying eggs as cheaply as possible? Is the importer, whose wage and other overhead costs now go up twice a year instead of only once, to be blamed for making a dollar where he can? Is the government, seeking to aid the toiling farmer, to be blamed for making the price of the farmer's eggs so high that eggs shipped all the way from China can successfully compete for his market?

Strength In Arms

While Communist forces in Korea were enjoying victory after victory during the summer, a widespread supposition arose that these successes were to be put down in support of the doctrine that vastly superior numbers may overwhelm any opponent on the battlefield. It was known that the Korea Reds had a superiority in tanks and for a time in artillery, but it appeared that the chief element of their strength lay in seemingly inexhaustible reserves of men to be thrown into the lines to replace losses. It has often been argued that the many with unlimited numbers of men in the end is invincible, and it appeared that the United Nations forces would simply have to wait for the Red manpower to run out.

Now the appraisal of equipment captured when the Red armies south of the 38th Parallel melted away has caused a reversal of this notion. Intelligence officers are quoted as saying that the North Korean army had enough fire power for a force three times its size by World War II standards, that it had more automatic weapons, in relation to the numbers of men, than any comparable armed unit of any nation in that war. This puts a different light on the campaign.

Later appraisals, when more time has elapsed and more details have been learned, may change the picture again. The influence of air and naval strength is yet to be reckoned. But it now appears that the Korea record will go down in the military histories in support not of the doctrine of vast numbers of men but of the doctrine of maximum armament.

Notions About America

The obvious material prosperity of this country gives rise to the opinion, among foreigners, that material success is the only motivating force which exists here.

A speaker before the recent World Jewish Congress in New York declared that there are few states in the world about which there are so many misconceptions as the United States. The great ideals underlying American life and the humanitarian motives of its leaders are virtually unknown abroad, he went on to say.

Perhaps too much emphasis is laid on the material benefits of democracy when its advantages are described, both by others and by ourselves. Our standard of living, about which we publicly boast, covers other matters than plumbing and automobiles. Our ethical standards, too, are high, in spite of certain widely advertised deviations from them. Such projects as the Community Chest, with its nation-wide support, our great philanthropic foundations, and our well-supported museums and libraries should receive more international publicity. Some of the misconceptions abroad may be due to wrong emphasis on our part.

Around The Neck

The people who make neckties say that the history of neckwear goes back to man's beginnings. It seems enough to go back to the origin of the cravat in 17th century France, when the French made something of the bits of colored cloth worn around the neck by Croatian soldiers. It's hard to say whether the Croats or the French should be blamed.

Perhaps credit should go to Charles II of England, who took the cravat to his native land. There it survived although the French Revolution almost finished it on the Continent. During the revolutionary period it was as much as a man's life was worth to be seen wearing one. Sometimes it still is.

Yet it was the French who thought of pulling a tie tight enough to cause the face to flush. Small thanks are due them for that. They also invented a cravat especially loose for men who liked to eat in comfort. What happened to that?

Necktie people are authorities for the statement that 85 per cent of all ties are bought by women and less than one per cent are returned or exchanged.

More Peptic Ulcer Remedies

IT IS DIFFICULT to estimate how many persons in the United States suffer from stomach ulcers. Judging by our mail, and from the amount of antiacids sold in this county, there must be a large number. According to some estimates, at least five per cent of our population are victims.

There never has been a shortage of remedies and their multiplicity stems from the numerous theories as to the cause. Considerable controversy exists as to why a small part of the stomach wall or intestine gives way to form an ulcer. Some believe that the craters develop because the stomach churns too vigorously or contains too much acid or peptic enzymes. Others blame the blood vessels that supply the involved area with nourishment and assert that these channels are blocked through spasm or clot formation. The finger of guilt also has been pointed at the nervous system, allergy, and focal infection. Of all the possibilities, hyperacidity and gastrointestinal irritability are the most logical and are more or less accepted by the majority of physicians.

As a result, most medications are directed toward quieting the gastric pouch and reducing the acid. There are any number of antacids on the market, varying from the old reliable Sippy powders to aluminum gels and the more modern hydrolysates and ion exchange resins. To be most effective they must be taken at hourly intervals as they usually neutralized gastric acidity for short periods only. Complete neutralization rarely occurs, even though the antacid administered daily is 25 to 50 times as much as is needed to neutralize the total production of hydrochloric acid.

There are well known drawbacks and it is now becoming apparent that neutralizing the acid that has already been secreted is like closing the barn door after the horse has escaped. It is far more desirable to prevent the secretion of the acid. This is the basis behind the use of certain chemicals that depress the secreting mechanism. The drug treatment is preferred because it is simple and does not subject the individual to the usual risks of surgery. The best products for this purpose are extracts from the wall of the small intestine or other parts of the body. Such substances include enterogastrone, urogastrone, and histaminase, which received so much publicity in the last few years. But they have not proved practical; they are ineffective unless injected directly into a vein and none is pure enough to be used in this manner over a long period.

The acid secretions also can be curbed by using the drug, astropine. This is an old remedy that several decades ago was incorporated into the treatment of ulcer. But the dose needed to suppress the stomach secretions also affects the salivary glands, causing uncomfortable mouth dryness.

Furthermore, the compound dilates the pupils of the eyes and leads to difficulty in reading fine print. One of the latest remedies is a related drug, banthine, which is said to have an atropine-like effect on the stomach, with less tendency to disturb the mouth and eyes.

TOMORROW: Hunters, beware of rabbit fever (tularemia).

The admirals' propaganda outfit, "Operation 23," was supposed to have been abolished after the B-36 feud of last fall. It was the cause of a bitter battle between the Air Force and the Navy, with the result that forthright Secretary of the Navy Matthews dispersed the naval officers in charge.

However, it now develops that the ghost of "Operation 23" is still haunting the Air Force. The same old anti-Air Force stories are being leaked to the press. In fact, Navy propagandists, believe it or not, are spreading the same identical stories as the communists about the air force; namely, that U. S. airplanes have been killing North Korean women and children.

Actually, B-29 raids in Korea have been so accurate that they de-molished the Woosang armament plants without even touching the rows of workers' houses alongside.

Some admirals are also coming out into the open with the same views that got them into trouble over unification. Rear Adm. Stuart Ingersoll, for instance, harangued a recent conference of American mayors on the Navy's success in Korea, as if the Air Force did not exist. "One of the main lessons of the Korean war," declared Admiral Ingersoll, "was the great value of inherent mobility of the Navy forces."

The Admiral pointed out that the Navy has sailed up and down the Korean Coast bombarding Communist positions, forgetting to mention that there was no enemy air force to interfere with the Navy.

GOP Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon had scornfully dubbed the bill the "Fort Des Moines steal," but GOP Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper needed the bill to help his re-election fight, and, though Hickenlooper is a bitter foe of the administration, while Morse is a personal friend of Truman's, the President sided with his GOP enemy against his GOP friend.

Morse opposed the bill on the ground that it was a pure political grab.

"There are too many members of Congress making a political grab bag of the reservoirs of surplus property," the Oregon Senator maintained. "The bill before us reeks with Iowa politics."

"Where the carcasses lie," commented Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, sadly, "there the vultures love to feed."

Morse even carried his opposition to the point of writing Secretary of the Army Pace: "The time to stop a raid on the federal treasury of giveaway camp sites is right now."

And to President Truman, he wrote: "For two years certain politicians from Iowa have tried to put through the Hickenlooper bill. The fact is, Mr. President, the whole thing smells. I think you should veto it for the healthy political effect it would have upon those members of Congress who seem to think that our supplies of surplus property should be used as a grab bag."

Mr. Truman, however, turned a deaf ear on his GOP friend, and signed the bill that helped his GOP enemy.

NOTE—A prominent Iowa banker, Van Vechten Shaffer, president of the Guaranty Bank and Trust of Des Moines, wrote Hickenlooper regarding the Fort Des Moines bill: "Haven't you learned that nothing is for free? If the Government of the United States through the Senate is fool enough to give us Fort Des Moines, what are they giving Washington and Oregon, Arkansas and Florida? And if you are not preventing such ridiculous handouts, you ought to be. This kind of monkey business does not make votes even in an election year, and we are not stupid enough in Iowa to believe we don't pay one way or another for the handouts."

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Who's Fighting Taft?

I also have a document entitled: "The Record of Robert Alphonso Taft," issued by the United Labor League of Ohio.

These two documents are identical except for one introductory page and an omission. I am told that these books were originally put out by the CIO-PAC under the title of "A Speaker's Handbook on Robert Alphonso Taft. His Record Is Against Him." The original book was published by Ohio CIO Political Action Committee, 218 East State Street, Columbus 15, Ohio.

So here we have the Democratic National Committee taking a CIO book and making it a Democratic document. In the introduction to the issue by the Democratic National Committee no credit is given to the original authors, the CIO.

The United Labor League of Ohio version omits this world-shaking paragraph, which does, however, appear in the Democratic National Committee book:

"As a baby, Robert Alphonso was greedy for oatmeal. His nurse tried to curb his appetite by giving him plain milk instead of the rich cream served at the Taft breakfast table. When that didn't work, the nurse held out on the sugar."

So, from it the CIO Democrats reach this Freudian conclusion:

"These tactics must have made a deep impression on the young heir. Fifty years later he was using them himself. When he found he could not block welfare measures in the Senate, Taft tried to take the good parts out of them. So he proposed housing programs with no public housing in them, a health plan with no general health program in it, farm bills with no protection for the farmers' market prices, and FEPC bills with no provisions for enforcement."

Note the use of the word, heir. The idea is to show that Taft is a rich man. I do not know what he inherited from his father, but Franklin D. Roosevelt was an heir; so is Averell Harriman, who addresses labor conventions. I am willing to bet anyone that Harriman inherited more than all the Taft heirs put together, his father having been a railroad tycoon when there was money in railroads.

Then, these CIO liars try to give the impression that Taft is a bigot who hates foreigners, immigrants and so on. This is the way they put the following idea forward in a serious campaign:

"As a youngster, Robert Alphonso went to the Philippines, where his father was governor-general. One day while swimming he was stung by a jellyfish — a Philippine jellyfish, of course. This, too, must have made a deep impression on Taft. It may have been the start of his fear, distrust and dislike of foreigners, of immigrants, of all things that are not demonstrably third generation American."

This jellyfish episode is supposed to be taken from an article by Dr. Felix Morley. It is one of those human interest episodes that journalists employ like paprika in a goulash, often to hide the lack of vitamins. But the CIO Democrats use this reed to hang a heavy label of anti-foreign, anti-first generation American. In Ohio, that can be important.

What are the facts? The Tafts, father William Howard, and two sons, Robert and Charles, have devoted themselves to justice for all men. It was William Howard Taft who, in 1912, as president, abrogated our commercial treaty with Czarist Russia because of their injustice to Jews. I recall, as a boy, attending a meeting in Carnegie Hall at which President Taft was extolled for this courageous act.

Robert Taft has, since early manhood, supported the Jewish Zionist cause; he has defended the Poles against the vast injustices which that nation has suffered. He was responsible for

Conferences Will Reflect Russian Policy Changes

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—From time to time the Moscow government indicates a desire to carry on "peace" conversations with the American government. Sometimes the hint is thrown out in the United Nations, and sometimes it is conveyed in private to persons prominent in this country.

The puzzle is that, with an American ambassador in Moscow all the time and with a Russian ambassador in Washington, there should be any question about means of transmitting the desires of the Kremlin.

Some of the approaches are informal and may be no more than gestures to indicate a peaceful turn in Moscow policy. One of these which occurred a few weeks ago on the night of the dinner given by Trygve Lie in New York concerned Bernard M. Baruch, elder statesman, who, as reported at that time, was seen conversing at the head table with Yakob Malik, the Russian envoy.

Mr. Baruch declined to reveal what was said either by Mr. Malik or himself. Since then another prominent American—Harold Stassen—has issued a statement declaring his desire to visit Russia. It is quite probable that Mr. Stassen will be given an opportunity to enter Russia and travel therein, but whether or not he will see the head of the government is not so certain.

Two Reasons

The Russians were especially anxious to have Mr. Baruch come to Russia because they were interested in his ideas on the development of atomic energy for peaceful uses. As far back as 1919, Lenin sought Mr. Baruch's advice on industrial development. The request was revived in later years. Mr. Baruch told friends that he could never see eye to eye with the Russians on the basic principles or fundamental approach and nothing ever came of these invitations.

A few weeks ago, when Mr. Malik inquired of Mr. Baruch why he didn't visit the Soviet Union on his trips abroad in 1948 and 1949, the latter is reported to have replied that he ddin't think the Russians wanted him. Mr. Malik countered with the suggestion that he ought to go now. But Mr. Baruch made it clear that there were two reasons why he couldn't do it—first, because he was "personna non grata" with the Washington government here, which Mr. Malik didn't take seriously, and, second, because the President is the only accredited and constitutional agent of the American government and hence the only one who could make policy.

Officials here concur in that point of view and, in fact, have not liked the idea of any personal emissaries visiting Russia who could be regarded as speaking for the government, either directly or indirectly.

One of the chief stumbling blocks, of course, to any negotiations at present is that the United States Government doesn't want to enter into any discussions with Moscow separately. The feeling is that Great Britain and France are equally concerned with any over-all settlement in Europe or Asia and that any talks should be initiated with representatives of all the major powers present.

Russian Viewpoint

The Russian viewpoint is that there should be a resumption of some talks but with it goes the suggestion that it should be a substitute for action to be taken soon to reorganize the General Assembly procedures on collective security.

It is easy to overestimate the importance of informal conversations in the corridors of U. N. meetings. Everything that a Russian representative says is likely to be looked upon as a carefully worked out program by the Kremlin itself, no matter how casual the conversation may appear to be.

For all practical purposes, it may be taken for granted that if Russian policy does change in any important fundamental, it will be reflected not in approaches to prominent Americans or in speechmaking at the U. N. but in the private conferences which diplomats have from time to time with high officials of the Moscow foreign office. There are plenty of ways to talk—if there is anything important to be said. There are plenty of things that can lead to an agreement—if any important action is taken that indicates such a desire. Opportunities to collaborate between the East and West arise every day.

Military Decisions Can Have Profound Results

By MARK SULLIVAN

OUR government is just now making decisions and arrangements having to do with war—war as now going on, or more war in the future, or the prevention of war. About such military decisions there is a practically universal point of view and practice—they should be made by military heads without interference, and they should be secret if the military heads consider secrecy to be desirable, as in most cases they do. The secrecy, it is commonly conceded, should extend even to Congress, except as in some cases the military heads may consider it expedient to give carefully safeguarded information to small committees of Congress in executive sessions. The broad theory is that military decisions and arrangements should not be subject to debate in Congress or discussion by the public. But military decisions and arrangements are rarely military alone, they in many cases include or entail decisions about national policy in the broadest sense.

A classic example is the agreement made by President Roosevelt with Stalin at Yalta in 1945. By that agreement Stalin promised to help us in the war against Japan, and Roosevelt agreed that after Japan should be conquered Russia should have territory belonging to China, as well as neighboring territory and other advantages. From a strictly military point of view there was advantage for us in this, and from the same point of view there was reason for secrecy. The secrecy was rigid—not even James F. Byrnes who was at Yalta as Roosevelt's assistant, knew of the agreement until months later, after he had become Secretary of State and by search located the document of agreement in the White House.

Aided Communism

But the Yalta agreement was more than military. Whether or not Roosevelt realized it at the time, the agreement gave Russian Communism territorial and other leverage for advance in China and Asia, leverage which Russian Communism later made use of with disastrous consequences to the United States and to the world. Had the agreement not been secret, there was among our people and in Congress enough distrust of Russian Communism to have either prevented the agreement from being made or to have frustrated its consequences. Apart from distrust of Russian Communism, our people and Congress would have cried out against such an agreement as a betrayal of China, an ally already helping us in the war against Japan and for generations our friend.

In modern conditions military decisions and arrangements tend increasingly to have this doubtful nature. Made with the immediate and overt purpose of winning a battle or a war, they have profound consequences and bearings other than military. The recent decision about whether our forces should cross the boundary between South Korea and North, was made difficult because of its bearing on two considerations—in part contradictory, in part parallel—one being military victory, the other having to do with the difficult ideological conflict between Communism and resistance to it.

All this raises a question—whether in modern conditions it is practicable that a President as Commander-in-Chief should be free to make military decisions such as Roosevelt made at Yalta. To a degree, the question extends to the deference accorded a President in the conduct of foreign relations having to do with war or the possibility of it, such as is expressed in bi-partisan support by Congress.

Cites Stassen Plea

An earnest plea for greater responsibility on the part of Congress has been made by Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania and former Governor of Minnesota. It was in the radio address he made to the country August 15, about our relations with Russian Communism and the problems associated with it. In his comprehensive and thorough analysis he included a brief passage about Congress:

"Public opinion and the press should encourage Congress to exercise increasing leadership. The situation requires statesmanship of a high order in Congress. The statesmen are there and they are beginning to respond . . . I submit that under the circumstances which our country faces, the people and the press would do well to look to Congress for increasing leadership."

It will be observed that Mr. Stassen here speaks of Congress as a whole, and not of Congress as made up of parties. What he pleads for is a strong Congress regardless of party make-up. He is as far as possible from even alluding to the present campaign to elect a new Congress. It is a broader thing than that that weighs upon him. Yet what he says contains guidance for persons who wish earnestly to use their veto in the interest of the whole country.

Lavender And Old String

AMONG the doodads on my desk is an old piece of string wrapped around a wooden spool, and people who come to my office often quiz me about it. My rough, ready and routine answer is: I'm fond of that bit of string because, thanks to it, my business address is Sixth Avenue instead of Davy Jones's Locker.

Billy Rose

But let me crank the reel back 44 years and give it to you—as my Aunt Frieda would put it—"in sequins"..

The scene I remember most vividly on the East Side is the dock near the Fulton Fish Market where we used to go swimming on summr days when school was out and the tide was in. And the waterfront character who usually takes stage center in my memory is a little ragbag of a man we called Crazy Moe who spent most of his days spool-fishing near the edge of the pier.

We often pointed out to this incompleat angler that he was wasting his time—that no self-respecting flounder would be caught sauteed in the polluted waters of the East Side—but Crazy Moe paid no attention to us. His answer, when he bothered to answer at all, was that he didn't much care about catching anything—he just liked to fish. And as nearly as we could tell, he never even took the trouble to bait his hook.

One day a boy named Terry, the most promising juvenile delinquent on Avenue A, swiped a mackerel from a fish stand, dove off the dock when Moe wasn't looking and hooked the fish onto his line. And when the tetched one began to pull in his "catch," his hands shook so violently that the fish looked alive.

Before he could get wise to the deception, however, one of the kids grabbed the mackerel out of his hand and hacked its head off with a jackknife. Crazy Moe cussed at us for five minutes—and it wasn't because he wanted to stuff and mount the fish, he just wanted to throw the poor thing back.

There was another day when this same Terry decided it was time I learned how to swim, and when I tried to ward him off with the wily dialectics of a seven-year-old he began calling me "sissy" and "yella belly." Finally, realizing there was no way to dodge the dunking, I stripped down to my shorts. Terry and another kid grabbed hold of me, gave me a couple of hammock swings and pitched me into the river. I landed ker-splash between a grapefruit rind and a floating bottle, and water began rushing into me from every opening.

As I was going down for the second time I somehow got tangled up in a bit of string, and when my head brokew ater I saw Crazy Moe standing on the dock hauling in his second fish—me, and I was darned near as dead as the first one. The line, of course, wasn't strong enough to do more than keep me afloat, but it gave Terry a chance to dive in and pull me over to the ladder.

After I had recovered breath and bravado, I asked Crazy Moe to let me have his fishing line for a keepsake, and when he demurred I bribed it way from him with what was an important piece of money in those days—a new Liberty Head nickel.

Today, many decades and chins later, the piece of string occupies a prominent place among the mementos on my desk—sort of a mute reminder of the time when my life hung by a hair. And my favorite mermaid who, of course, knows this story says it explains why I married her.

"You wanted a swimmer in the family," says Eleanor, "because the next time they throw you in, there may not be a Crazy Moe hanging around."

Interest Rate On Tax Bills Now In Effect

Unpaid city tax bills became subject to a one per cent interest rate yesterday.

City tax bills became subject to a one per cent interest rate today.

Monday was the deadline for paying taxes interest free, George E. Davis, tax collector, said. Office business slackened considerably today after hundreds flocked to City Hall Friday and Monday with their payments.

Friday was the largest day of the month and one of the largest in history of the tax office when a total of $131,946 was taken in.

For October, taxes collected total $454,651.02 and leaves approximately $99,457.39 to be collected, according to figures supplied by Mrs. Thelma Streett, assistant collector.

Slightly over 83 per cent or $717,344.12 of the total tax bill of $810,226 has been collected.

Davis said the interest rate is one-half of one per cent retroactive to August 14 when the levy was passed. The two-month lapse since the levy makes the interest amount to one per cent, he added.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON

MILTON BERLE and the girls who wear deep V-luptuous necklines have run into tough competition on television from the terrific new show—The United Nations . . . Take, for instance, the tall suave "star" who voices British policy at the Security Council . . . Golden-voice Sir Gladwyn Jebb shines as quite a personality when the appears on television . . . An he loves it!

AUSTINE

In America, Sir Gldawyn (sounds like one of King Arthur's Round Table blokes, doesn't it?) frequently switches his smart Saville Row suit for an old pair of pants that don't match . . . Then he works his way through some of the tougher bars . . . Unlike his distinguished soldier ancestor who helped to burn Washington in the War of 1812, Jebb thoroughly admires the Americans . . . Wants to get to know them better.

"With a glass of beer and a peeled ear, I pick up quite a bit of information in the pubs. Perhaps more about world affairs than I do at the Security Council," confided Sir Gladwyn not long ago.

On one occasion, it seems, he struck up a conversation with a bartender, a regular tuner-in on the UN's television whoop-dee-doo.

"A shar-r-p bunch of cookies," the bartender brogued. "That Russian Malik, he's a nasty one," he continued. "And, in spite of meself, I can't help liking that Englishman. Sa-a-ay," the cocktail jerker leaned over for a look at Jebb, "you look sort of like him."

"Well, what do you think of the British guy?' 'urged Sir Gladwyn, putting on his best American accent to avoid being recognized.

"Now there's a man who's wasting his time," said the bar man. "With a voice like his and his looks! He should be in Hollywood, making money."

"Really? You think so?" Sir Gladwyn cooed, finishing his 10-cent beer, and leaving a DOLLAR tip.

Speaking of television, have you heard Fred Allen's remark? "It's a device where people who haven't anything to do watch people who can't do anything."

With the new tax bill Uncle Sam will take a bite out of every worker's pay check . . . And plenty of Congressmen up for election are worried . . . So Republicans have a little crack concerning the Veep's transcontinental speech making tour:

"Barkley's bark won't be as bad as the tax collector's bite."

Jane Stevenson McIlvaine, Washington columnist of a few years back, will soon reap profits from the sale of her first book, "Front Page For Jennifer" . . . Though Jane grew up in Middleburg hunt country a pampered pretty debuante, she will not use her book's profits to buy a mink coat, Cadillac or oodles of rubies . . . Indeed no . . . Practical Jane will invest in a new Duplex printing press!

Since she and her husband, Robinson McIlvaine, bought the weekly newspaper, "Downington Archive," at Downington, Pennsylvania, back in 1946 when it had 60 subscribers, they've sunk every penny into their little publishing business . . . After pitching their presses in a former livery stable, the paper now has over 3000 readers and, thanks to "Front Page for Jennifer," will soon boast some new equipment.

Henry Field, anthropologist and former head of Chicago's Field Museum, recently returned from another expedition and is working on his thesis on Near-Eastern peoples. He can always be counted on for a story or two . . . One of his best concerns the time he was asked to make a radio talk on the "History of Mankind Dating From the Stone Age" . . . "How much time for that trifling task?" he inquired.

"Thirteen minutes," was the staggering reply.

Nevertheless, in the interest of education, Henry was game and he labored mightily to cram it all into thirteen minutes. But he had to give up in desperation. "I've got to have more time," he pleaded on the phone.

After an hour's deliberation the radio people called him back. "The Columbia Broadcasting System can give you thirty second more," the secretary intoned.

"Thank God," murmured Henry. "Now I can get in Greece and Rome!"

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

GROOMING won't make a woman charming," I once heard a young girl say "Personality is what really counts."

And, of course, she was right.

But, look around you—the most charming personalities always belong to the women who are well-groomed. Good grooming reflects a well-disciplined and orderly mind, consideration and respect for others, along with self-respect. These are mighty important facets of any personality. Without them it is more than a bit difficult to win your way in this world or to garner a wide circle of friends.

Don't Handicap Yourself!

A poorly-groomed woman handicaps herself right at the outset by making an unattractive impression. She rarely gets the chance to display the sterling traits of her personality that might overcome the first impression, because she is quickly rated down or dismissed from the minds of people around her.

Whether you like it or not, to the world in general the kind of grooming you present is accepted as one of the most salient clues to your charm. It is just practical, good sense and an important part of the business of living to make sure that your grooming is always at its best.

Here is the minimum list of grooming check points that every woman should memorize and keep in working order at all times:

The Woman Who Cares

1. Hair—tidy and shining clean.
2. Hands—smooth and free from all stains.
3. Clothes — clean, pressed and free from lint and powder.
4. Clothes — neat and trim. No safety pin subterfuge!
5. Skirt—evenly hung, all the way around.
6. Stockings—seams straight.
7. Shoes — in good repair, clean and brushed.
8. Gloves and purse—spotless and tidy, inside and out.

If you can pass this test every time you look in the mirror before facing your public, your grooming will be a forthfight clue to your own gracious, charming manner. No one can ever say that you are not a woman who cares!

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON

MILTON BERLE and the girls who wear deep V-luptuous necklines have run into tough competition on television from the terrific new show—The United Nations . . . Take, for instance, the tall suave "star" who voices British policy at the Security Council . . . Golden-voice Sir Gladwyn Jebb shines as quite a personality when the appears on television . . . An he loves it!

AUSTINE

In America, Sir Gldawyn (sounds like one of King Arthur's Round Table blokes, doesn't it?) frequently switches his smart Saville Row suit for an old pair of pants that don't match . . . Then he works his way through some of the tougher bars . . . Unlike his distinguished soldier ancestor who helped to burn Washington in the War of 1812, Jebb thoroughly admires the Americans . . . Wants to get to know them better.

"With a glass of beer and a peeled ear, I pick up quite a bit of information in the pubs. Perhaps more about world affairs than I do at the Security Council," confided Sir Gladwyn not long ago.

On one occasion, it seems, he struck up a conversation with a bartender, a regular tuner-in on the UN's television whoop-dee-doo.

"A shar-r-p bunch of cookies," the bartender brogued. "That Russian Malik, he's a nasty one," he continued. "And, in spite of meself, I can't help liking that Englishman. Sa-a-ay," the cocktail jerker leaned over for a look at Jebb, "you look sort of like him."

"Well, what do you think of the British guy?' 'urged Sir Gladwyn, putting on his best American accent to avoid being recognized.

"Now there's a man who's wasting his time," said the bar man. "With a voice like his and his looks! He should be in Hollywood, making money."

"Really? You think so?" Sir Gladwyn cooed, finishing his 10-cent beer, and leaving a DOLLAR tip.

Speaking of television, have you heard Fred Allen's remark? "It's a device where people who haven't anything to do watch people who can't do anything."

•—•—•

With the new tax bill Uncle Sam will take a bite out of every worker's pay check . . . And plenty of Congressmen up for election are worried . . . So Republicans have a little crack concerning the Veep's transcontinental speech making tour:

"Barkley's bark won't be as bad as the tax collector's bite."

Jane Stevenson McIlvaine, Washington columnist of a few years back, will soon reap profits from the sale of her first book, "Front Page For Jennifer" . . . Though Jane grew up in Middleburg hunt country a pampered pretty debuante, she will not use her book's profits to buy a mink coat, Cadillac or oodles of rubies . . . Indeed no . . . Practical Jane will invest in a new Duplex printing press!

Since she and her husband, Robinson McIlvaine, bought the weekly newspaper, "Downington Archive," at Downington, Pennsylvania, back in 1946 when it had 60 subscribers, they've sunk every penny into their little publishing business . . . After pitching their presses in a former livery stable, the paper now has over 3000 readers and, thanks to "Front Page for Jennifer," will soon boast some new equipment.

Henry Field, anthropologist and former head of Chicago's Field Museum, recently returned from another expedition and is working on his thesis on Near-Eastern peoples. He can always be counted on for a story or two . . . One of his best concerns the time he was asked to make a radio talk on the "History of Mankind Dating From the Stone Age" . . . "How much time for that trifling task?" he inquired.

"Thirteen minutes," was the staggering reply.

Nevertheless, in the interest of education, Henry was game and he labored mightily to cram it all into thirteen minutes. But he had to give up in desperation. "I've got to have more time," he pleaded on the phone.

Valley Street Bridge To Open In 6-8 Weeks

The Valley Street Bridge should be open to vehicular traffic within six or eight weeks, giving relief to the traffic problem in downtown Cumberland, according to Thomas E. Dickson, of the Army Engineering office.

When the bridge is reopened, much of the North End and West Side-bound traffic will be taken out of the business section and off the Market Street span.

The Valley Street conduit, biggest in the flood control system, will empty into Wills Creek at the bridge and a heavily - enforced retention wall is needed at that point.

Mr. Dickson said some concrete for the structure has already been poured. The present wall will have to be torn down.

The conduit, which runs from the county farm property at the head of Furnace Street, branches off into twin tunnels at the foot of the bridge. At the place where the water empties into the creek, conduits will be 26 feet underground.

The entire Valley Street phase will not be completed until February or March, Dickson declared, adding that encountering of rock in excavation process near the creek and under the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is slowing down operations.

The Army engineer in charge of the flood control project also reported that the latest phase of the undertaking through Riverside Park hit a snag, the George and Lynch contractors running into a pervious material 14 feet deep which allows Potomac River water to run through the passage.

Excavation of 19 feet is necessary for the West Side conduit and a special six-inch pump is being installed. The pump will operate 24 hours a day in an effort to keep the ditch dry. Dickson said that three feet of the pervious material must be excavated before hitting solid clay.

Methodists To Hold Leadership School Today

The Leadership Training School will hold sessions today, tomorrow and Friday from 7 to 9 p. m. and the same evenings next week at the Centre Street Methodist Church under the theme, "A Christian Education in the Local Church."

Rev. Arthur Scrogum, president of the association and pastor of Living Stone Church of the Brethren will be dean; Rev. H. M. Richardson, pastor of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, sub-dean; Rev. Donald F. Brake, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, and Rev. Norman O. Scribner, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church, assistants.

Adult Classes Offered

Clergy of the area will teach adult classes open to teachers and others under the direction of the Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Rev. Mr. Clapp will present the course at the opening of the school today discussing such subjects as what can be said for the church; for what reason does the church exist and the church as a Christian institution and its purpose.

Tomorrow, Rev. Mr. Brake will present the course with Rev. Clapp taking part. Discussions will include the unified church, a brief historical resume, and restudying the educational implication of all basic church functions.

Reports Heard

Friday, church administering of its educational program and the administrative staff in cooperation will be discussed led by the Rev. Mr. Richardson.

Classes are open to teachers or those interested in teaching.

At its meeting Monday, the association also made arrangements for services for nurses at Memorial Hospital. A service will be held the first and third Tuesdays of each month at the nurses' home.

The committee on the Community Chest reported the ministers exceeded their goal. A report on Land Use and Conservation Week, in which the association participated, was presented.

M-G-K MOTOR CO.

Just what do you own when you own a share of stock? When you own a share of stock, you own a share of a business.

Take, for example, an automobile company with 5,000,000 shares of stock. Let's say you own just one of those shares. Even so, you are an owner of an interest in that company, in its factories, lathes, steel, its reputation—everything it has.

Suppose you own a share, or 10 shares, of a company in some other field—railroad, drugs and chemicals, public utility, oil, food products, aviation or anything else. Again, you own an interest in that company—its laboratories, supplies, patents, the "know-how" of its workers and managers. A lot of other people own the other shares—investors like yourself.

A single share, or 10 shares, may seem small. But the average stockholder in many of our biggest corporations owns no more than 40 to 50 shares of stock.

Regardless of how many shares you own, the stock certificate you have is registered in your name on the books of the company. It is legal evidence of the shares you own. Their number determines the extent of your interest in the company—in the profits it may earn, the dividends it may pay, the risks you have assumed.

The shares you own give you, among other things, the right to help elect the men who direct your company's policies, chart its course. These directors report on the company's operations to you, and to the other stockholders of your company.

Shares in hundreds of different companies are bought and sold on the New York Stock Exchange every business day by people all over the country. These companies are "listed." They have met certain requirements to place their shares on the Stock Exchange. One of these requirements is to publish information that is essential to an informed understanding of the company's financial condition.

It's American to own homes, insurance policies, savings accounts and automobiles. It's also American to own stocks.

Whether you own 1 share of stock, or 10, or 1000, you own a share of a business . . . and to that extent it is your company.

More than 1,550 offices of Member Firms of the New York Stock Exchange are located in 378 cities. Through them investors across the country can buy or sell the securities of listed companies on any business day. From them investors can get—without obligation—the facts about stocks and bonds which are the necessary first step to an investment decision.

Valley Street Bridge To Open In 6-8 Weeks

The Valley Street Bridge should be open to vehicular traffic within six or eight weeks, giving relief to the traffic problem in downtown Cumberland, according to Thomas E. Dickson, of the Army Engineering office.

When the bridge is reopened, much of the North End and West Side-bound traffic will be taken out of the business section and off the Market Street span.

The Valley Street conduit, biggest in the flood control system, will empty into Wills Creek at the bridge and a heavily - enforced retention wall is needed at that point.

Mr. Dickson said some concrete for the structure has already been poured. The present wall will have to be torn down.

The conduit, which runs from the county farm property at the head of Furnace Street, branches off into twin tunnels at the foot of the bridge. At the place where the water empties into the creek, conduits will be 26 feet underground.

The entire Valley Street phase will not be completed until February or March, Dickson declared, adding that encountering of rock in excavation process near the creek and under the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is slowing down operations.

The Army engineer in charge of the flood control project also reported that the latest phase of the undertaking through Riverside Park hit a snag, the George and Lynch contractors running into a pervious material 14 feet deep which allows Potomac River water to run through the passage.

Excavation of 19 feet is necessary for the West Side conduit and a special six-inch pump is being installed. The pump will operate 24 hours a day in an effort to keep the ditch dry. Dickson said that three feet of the pervious material must be excavated before hitting solid clay.

Methodists To Hold Leadership School Today

The Leadership Training School will hold sessions today, tomorrow and Friday from 7 to 9 p. m. and the same evenings next week at the Centre Street Methodist Church under the theme, "A Christian Education in the Local Church."

Rev. Arthur Scrogum, president of the association and pastor of Living Stone Church of the Brethren will be dean; Rev. H. M. Richardson, pastor of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, sub-dean; Rev. Donald F. Brake, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, and Rev. Norman O. Scribner, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church, assistants.

Adult Classes Offered

Clergy of the area will teach adult classes open to teachers and others under the direction of the Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Rev. Mr. Clapp will present the course at the opening of the school today discussing such subjects as what can be said for the church; for what reason does the church exist and the church as a Christian institution and its purpose.

Tomorrow, Rev. Mr. Brake will present the course with Rev. Clapp taking part. Discussions will include the unified church, a brief historical resume, and restudying the educational implication of all basic church functions.

Classes are open to teachers or those interested in teaching.

Just what do you own when you own a share of stock? When you own a share of stock, you own a share of a business.

Take, for example, an automobile company with 5,000,000 shares of stock. Let's say you own just one of those shares. Even so, you are an owner of an interest in that company, in its factories, lathes, steel, its reputation—everything it has.

Suppose you own a share, or 10 shares, of a company in some other field—railroad, drugs and chemicals, public utility, oil, food products, aviation or anything else. Again, you own an interest in that company—its laboratories, supplies, patents, the "know-how" of its workers and managers. A lot of other people own the other shares—investors like yourself.

A single share, or 10 shares, may seem small. But the average stockholder in many of our biggest corporations owns no more than 40 to 50 shares of stock.

Regardless of how many shares you own, the stock certificate you have is registered in your name on the books of the company. It is legal evidence of the shares you own. Their number determines the extent of your interest in the company—in the profits it may earn, the dividends it may pay, the risks you have assumed.

The shares you own give you, among other things, the right to help elect the men who direct your company's policies, chart its course. These directors report on the company's operations to you, and to the other stockholders of your company.

Shares in hundreds of different companies are bought and sold on the New York Stock Exchange every business day by people all over the country. These companies are "listed." They have met certain requirements to place their shares on the Stock Exchange. One of these requirements is to publish information that is essential to an informed understanding of the company's financial condition.

It's American to own homes, insurance policies, savings accounts and automobiles. It's also American to own stocks.

Whether you own 1 share of stock, or 10, or 1000, you own a share of a business . . . and to that extent it is your company.

More than 1,550 offices of Member Firms of the New York Stock Exchange are located in 378 cities. Through them investors across the country can buy or sell the securities of listed companies on any business day. From them investors can get—without obligation—the facts about stocks and bonds which are the necessary first step to an investment decision.

County's Bank Balance Is Up, Dreyer Shows

Allegany County for the four months ending September 30 shows revenue from two state sources totals $88,403.78, according to the tabulation by Frederick C. Dreyer, county treasurer.

The report, prepared by Mrs. Johanna N. Sills, auditor, lists $132,035.64 in outstanding taxes. The bulk of this, $108,844.73 is 1950 taxes due W. A. Strother, collector for Tax District No. 1.

Auto taxes totaling $14,464.50 were also allocated to the county by the state.

Motor vehicle and gasoline taxes totaling $37,427.77 were also received as a state allocation under the Sherbow Plan.

The bank balance for the county as of September 30 totals $1,847,140.46. The June 30 balance was $1,772,231.73.

Largest amounts went for the public school system. A total of $307,000.20 went for salaries and upkeep of school properties, another $400,000 was allotted to the Board of Education from the school bonds of 1948. This money was for construction of new schools in the county.

The $88,403.78 figure used as the county's revenue from two state sources includes horse racing revenue, but part of this, $28,509.01 to be exact, is allocated by the county to the various incorporated towns on a population basis.

The rest of the funds allocated by the state to Allegany county are retained in full by the county.

8 Doctors Register Here For Armed Forces

County draft boards registered eight doctors Monday for duty in the armed forces.

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk-coordinator here, reported yesterday that two physicians, one dentist and a veterinarian signed up at the Union Street County Building.

At Frostburg Board No. 30, two doctors and two dentists registered. Those required to sign up were men under 51 who were educated at government expense during World War II and served less than 21 months active service, and those who were deferred during the war to complete their studies.

Freedom Scroll Signed By Many

Hundreds of people have signed their names to scrolls being distributed in six area counties for the "Crusade For Freedom."

Noel Speir Cook, county chairman, said yesterday morning any one wishing to sign the scroll should contact Boy or Girl Scouts, service or veterans organizations to whom the petitions have been circulated.

At least 1,000 persons in the area have signed the scrolls distributed by Boy Scouts of Potomac Council. The Celanese Corporation of America plant here has placed the scrolls in its cafeteria for workers wishing to sign.

Willis V. Smith, Boy Scout council executive said, deadline for Scouts to return the scrolls to the Scout office has been moved up to tomorrow. West Virginia Scouts may return them to the chairmen in their respective counties. The scrolls have been distributed in Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland, Mineral, Hardy, Grant and Hampshire counties in West Virginia, Smith said.

To climax the drive, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, organizer of the Berlin Airlift and Crusade chairman, is calling for "every man, woman and child in America to ring a bell with the Freedom Bell" and offer prayers for world peace through the United Nations on United Nations Day October 24.

Monday night, the Mayor and Council in a proclamation called for the ringing of bells at 11 a. m. and appropriate ceremonies at City Hall.

The local ceremony will be similar to that held in Berlin when the giant World Freedom Bell, symbol of the Crusade, will peal out for the first time its message of hope from Berlin's city hall in the shadow of the Iron Curtain.

Board Tables Tax Collection Proposal

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson's resolution asking that the collector in Tax District No. 1 be placed on a salary basis was tabled yesterday morning by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

There was no comment when Wilkinson gave the resolution to Clerk James G. Stevenson to read.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert moved that the resolution be tabled for study and consideration. Commissioner James Holmes seconded the motion and it was passed.

Health Department Reveals Capital Improvement Plans

BALTIMORE — (AP) — The Maryland Department of Health handed the State Planning Commission a long-term capital improvement program calling for the expenditure of $14,455,000.

Included in the program were projects estimated at $7,510,000 and classified by Dr. Robert H. Riley, health director, as urgent.

Most urgent, Dr. Riley said, is the need for a 600-bed chronic disease hospital in the Baltimore area, estimated to cost $6,425,000. Other urgent projects listed were staff quarters at Mount Wilson State Hospital, estimated at $1,000,000, and improvements to the water supply and fire protection system at Victor F. Cullen State Hospital, $85,000.

Listed by Dr. Riley as second priority projects were a $5,375,000 chronic desease hospital at Hagerstown, and replacement of a building to house 225 patients at the Cullen Hospital, to cost $1,570,000.

The health director said a proposed new Health Department building is not included in the capital improvements program, but is in the Health Department's budget request. The cost of the building is estimated at $1,300,000.

The Health Department requests brought construction requests submitted to the Planning Commission by state agencies to date to $70,437,047, including first priority requests amounting to $54,659,837.

Explaining the emphasis on the need for a Baltimore chronic disease hospital in Baltimore, Dr Riley told the Planning Commission that the Army plans to take back property at Camp Ritchie now being used by the state as a chronic disease hospital.

The State Board of Health has suggested that Sydenham Hospital, formerly operated by the City of Baltimore as a communicable disease institution, be acquired by the state for use as a chronic disease hospital.

Dr. Riley supported the plan. Sydenham could be used, he said, to absorb 100 patients from Camp Ritchie. It could be used in conjunction with the new building when it is completed, and the site is ideal as the hub of the state's chronic disease hospital system.

A figure of $500,000 has been proposed as the price for the Sydenham site. The property includes about 65 acres of land, quarters for nearly 40 nurses, and the 100-bed hospital.

Dr. Riley said other patients now at Camp Ritchie could be transferred temporarily to Deershead Hospital at Salisbury. He said the hospital there will be opened as soon as personnel can be secured to staff it.

Army To Equip All Infantry Divisions With Ranger Units

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Army announced that it plans to put a company of hard-hitting and highly mobile rangers in every one of its infantry divisions hereafter.

It said the decision resulted from World War II experience with rangers, underscored by lessons learned in Korea.

In the Korean fighting, the Army pointed out, enemy forces made highly successful use of small groups trained, armed and equipped especially to infiltrate United Nations lines.

The army announced that a ranger training section has been established at the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga.

Initially, four ranger companies will be formed. Each company will be composed of three platoons of three 10-man squads each. The Army's announcement added:

"Every ranger will be equipped with a light automatic rifle and each squad will have either a 60 mm mortar or a bazooka. Each man will carry two rounds on his person for these weapons, in addition to his automatic rifle ammunition and certain demolition equipment."

Battle For Communications Tough On War Reporters

By DON WHITEHEAD

ASHIYA, Japan. (AP)—The battle for communications has made the covering of this war the most difficult assignment perhaps that newsmen have reported in modern times.

It has been such a physical and emotional strain that veteran reporters agree they never have been under such pressure. And even the younger correspondents are showing the effects.

Communications have been skimpy ever since the Korean war started. Unlike the European theater in World War Two, there has been no commercial service near the scene.

In the siege of Seoul, reporters were commuting 1,200 miles to file their stories. They would get a frontline story, rush to the Kimpo airfield near Seoul, and then hitch a 600-mile plane ride to this Japanese airfield. Here they have telephone communication with Tokyo.

After filing their stories, they had to hitch a ride back to Kimpo and do the same thing over again. This is pretty much like getting a story in Washington and hitching to Chicago to phone the newspapers in Omaha.

We left Tokyo at 9 a. m. in pea soup weather and headed for Kimpo. One engine began acting up and our pilot put his plane down at the Ashiya field.

We shifted to another plane partly loaded with cargo. It was dark when our plane circled the Kimpo field. Before we could land, a Corsair crash-landed on the field—knocking out the runway lighting system and tearing up part of the steel-mat landing strip.

Our pilot, Lt. Milton H. Kelley, San Antonio, Tex., made a pass at the runway but in the dark he barely escaped crashing into oil drums on one side of the strip.

He pulled the big plane up again to circle the field. This time there was a failure of the light which signals that the landing gear is down and safety-locked for landing.

We thought we would have to make a crash landing. That was when M-Sgt. Ward D. Rush, Houston, Tex., broke open a box of fried chicken.

Rush said, "If this is a last meal, it might as well be chicken." His wife, Mary, in Sasebo, Japan, had fried the chickens and packed them for his flight to Korea.

We left Tokyo at 9 a. m. in pea soup weather and headed for Kimpo. One engine began acting up and our pilot put his plane down at the Ashiya field.

We shifted to another plane partly loaded with cargo. It was dark when our plane circled the Kimpo field. Before we could land, a Corsair crash-landed on the field—knocking out the runway lighting system and tearing up part of the steel-mat landing strip.

Our pilot, Lt. Milton H. Kelley, San Antonio, Tex., made a pass at the runway but in the dark he barely escaped crashing into oil drums on one side of the strip.

He pulled the big plane up again to circle the field. This time there was a failure of the light which signals that the landing gear is down and safety-locked for landing.

The plane turned back all the way to Ashiya—a 1,200-mile journey wasted for crew and passengers alike.

We thought we would have to make a crash landing. That was when M-Sgt. Ward D. Rush, Houston, Tex., broke open a box of fried chicken.

Rush said, "If this is a last meal, it might as well be chicken." His wife, Mary, in Sasebo, Japan, had fried the chickens and packed them for his flight to Korea.

Bagnell Jumps Into 3rd Place In Grid Scoring

Penn Record Breaker Was 42nd A Week Ago

By MILO FARNETI

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP) — Francis Bagnell, a driving Penn tailback boasting an odd nickname, giant-stepped from 42nd to third place today in the major college football yardage race.

Reds set a new all-time, single-game record in making the big advance. He gained 490 yards running and passing in Penn's 42-26 whipping of Dartmouth Saturday. The one-man assault broke the mark of 458 set in 1943 by Bob Hoernschemeyer of Indiana.

The husky Penn ace ran 214 yards in 18 carries and completed230 of 29 passes for 276 more. Bagnell now has 811 yards in three games, according to statistics of the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Bright, 1949, champion, retained his first-place spot with a gain of 375 yards as Drake walloped Iowa State Teachers, 34-18. In the all-time standings, that's third only to Bagnell and Hoernschemeyer.

The Drake star now has 1,340 yards in five games, well ahead of the all-time season pace set by Frank Sinkwich of Georgia in 1942. Bright has to average 212 yards in Drake's four remaining games to best Sinkwich, who gained 2,187 yards in 1942.

Bill Wade of Vanderbilt held off Bagnell to retain second place in total offense at 869 yards in four games, mostly on passing. He has gained only 21 yards on the ground.

Bill Cox of Duke, fourth in total offense at 804 yards, leads the passers in completions with 56 of 102 attempted for 659 yards. However, Wade leads in passing yardage at 848 on 38 out of 65.

Wilford (Whizzer) White of Arizona State at Tempe Tops the runners with 647 yards in four games, nearly an eight-yard average. Bright is second with 627 and last year's rushing champion, Mississippi's John Dottley, third at 545.

Navy's Assistant Coach Captained USC In 1948

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 17 (AP)—Navy's football encounter with Southern California Saturday will be something more than alumnus vs alma mater for 26-year-old Don Clark.

He won't merely be opposing his old school in Baltimore this Saturday. At least one teammate, Quarterback Wilbur Robertson, is still playing for the Trojans.

"Really good, too," says Clark.

In 40 football games between Michigan and Minnesota, Michigan has won 25 and lost 13, with two ties.

Barton High School is being touted as the favorite to win the WMI Soccer League championship this season.

We get it via the grapevine that Coach Johnny Thomas' eleven is the best balanced in the loop and will be tough to beat.

It's been 24 years since the Braves finished on top. Barton won six consecutive WMI championships (1921-1926) and steam - rollered everything in the state for three straight years (1923-1924-1925).

West Liberty won the Smoky Mountain Bowl game last season and is now on the way to its second straight undefeated season.

Montgomery Blair High School, which plays host to Allegany High at Silver Spring, Saturday, was trounced recently by St. John's Cadets of Washington (Brother Clement's school) by the score of 36-0.

Following the St. John's setback, Montgomery Blair took a tumble before Gonzaga High of Washington, 6-0.

Gonzaga played LaSalle way back in 1930 and took a 32-0 trouncing at the hands of the Explorers, coached that year by Denny Shay. LaSalle was undefeated and tied once.

Panel Rules Out Softball Protest

A protest by the Allegany Insulation team in the final game of the Recreation Softball League playoffs was ruled out by an athletic panel, consisting of Clifton Van Roby, J. Suter Kegg and Charles Kreitzburg. The following decision was handed down:

The base runner returning to first base had, in the opinion of the umpires, more than sufficient time to return to the base. When the ball was put back in play by a legally pitched ball the base runner was out. (Reference: Rule 30, Section 15, A-2).

The players were rightfully banished from the game at the decision of the umpire. (Rule 32).

Cunningham's thus became City Recreation Softball League champions.

Sisk gained 100 yards on ground plays against Keyser and scored two of the Camper's touchdown on runs of 25 and 24 yards. He also turned in two other sprints of 12 yards each and one of 16.

Fort Hill High School's undefeated Explorers will go after their sixth consecutive triumph of the season on Friday night when they play host to Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks at the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

And Coach William P. Hahn's gridders should win easily over a team which has never beaten Fort Hill in eight meetings since 1942.

The Hilltoppers have won seven of the games played to date. The 1946 contest ended in a scoreless tie.

1942—Fort Hill 47, Ridgeley 0

Coach Joe Bartell of West Liberty State College's football team got a kick out of a note received from Rider College, their next opponent on Saturday at Trenton, N. J.

Bartell laughingly remarked:

West Liberty won the Smoky Mountain Bowl game last season and is now on the way to its second straight undefeated season.

The Hilltoppers have been missing from Potomac State's schedule since the opener of the 1947 season when the teams battled to a 7-7 tie.

Back in 1907 umpires received $450 for working in the world series. This year each arbiter got $2,500, traveling expenses and $25 a day for meals and lodging.

But remember, back in 1907 you could buy a loaf of bread for five cents! It doesn't seem fair to compare salaries of 1907 with those of 1950.

Bagnell Jumps Into 3rd Place In Grid Scoring

Penn Record Breaker Was 42nd A Week Ago

By MILO FARNETI

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP) — Francis Bagnell, a driving Penn tailback boasting an odd nickname, giant-stepped from 42nd to third place today in the major college football yardage race.

Reds set a new all-time, single-game record in making the big advance. He gained 490 yards running and passing in Penn's 42-26 whipping of Dartmouth Saturday. The one-man assault broke the mark of 458 set in 1943 by Bob Hoernschemeyer of Indiana.

The husky Penn ace ran 214 yards in 18 carries and completed230 of 29 passes for 276 more. Bagnell now has 811 yards in three games, according to statistics of the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Bright, 1949, champion, retained his first-place spot with a gain of 375 yards as Drake walloped Iowa State Teachers, 34-18. In the all-time standings, that's third only to Bagnell and Hoernschemeyer.

The Drake star now has 1,340 yards in five games, well ahead of the all-time season pace set by Frank Sinkwich of Georgia in 1942. Bright has to average 212 yards in Drake's four remaining games to best Sinkwich, who gained 2,187 yards in 1942.

Bill Wade of Vanderbilt held off Bagnell to retain second place in total offense at 869 yards in four games, mostly on passing. He has gained only 21 yards on the ground.

Bill Cox of Duke, fourth in total offense at 804 yards, leads the passers in completions with 56 of 102 attempted for 659 yards. However, Wade leads in passing yardage at 848 on 38 out of 65.

Wilford (Whizzer) White of Arizona State at Tempe Tops the runners with 647 yards in four games, nearly an eight-yard average. Bright is second with 627 and last year's rushing champion, Mississippi's John Dottley, third at 545.

Navy's Assistant Coach Captained USC In 1948

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 17 (AP)—Navy's football encounter with Southern California Saturday will be something more than alumnus vs alma mater for 26-year-old Don Clark.

He won't merely be opposing his old school in Baltimore this Saturday. At least one teammate, Quarterback Wilbur Robertson, is still playing for the Trojans.

"Really good, too," says Clark.

In 40 football games between Michigan and Minnesota, Michigan has won 25 and lost 13, with two ties.

Panel Rules Out Softball Protest

A protest by the Allegany Insulation team in the final game of the Recreation Softball League playoffs was ruled out by an athletic panel, consisting of Clifton Van Roby, J. Suter Kegg and Charles Kreitzburg. The following decision was handed down:

The base runner returning to first base had, in the opinion of the umpires, more than sufficient time to return to the base. When the ball was put back in play by a legally pitched ball the base runner was out. (Reference: Rule 30, Section 15, A-2).

The players were rightfully banished from the game at the decision of the umpire. (Rule 32).

Cunningham's thus became City Recreation Softball League champions.

Shufflers To Meet

Brion Asks 25 Pct. To Fight Joe Louis

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—A matter of 2½ per cent tonight stood in the way of a Joe Louis-Cesar Brion match scheduled for Chicago Stadium Nov. 29.

Humie Wallman, Brion's manager, said he was offered 22½ per cent to meet the Brown Bomber in the 10-round go, but said he's holding out for 25.

South Has Seven Among Nation's Top 20 Elevens

Army Setting Pace, Irish Ranked 11th

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—Resurgence of the South and Southwest to a place of high respect is the main feature of the first month's skirmishing in college football.

Army's swift-striking Cadets head the national standings for the second week in a row today, but a rundown of the Associated Press top 20 shows no single section dominant.

Also no team overshadows the others as overwhelmingly as Army did during the war and as did Notre Dame and Michigan immediately afterward.

The new first ten, chosen by a vote of 275 sports writers and broadcasters, is: Army, Oklahoma, Southern Methodist, Kentucky, California, Stanford, Texas, Maryland, Ohio State and Washington.

Every section is represented and all except the east, which boasts No. 1 Army, have at least two teams. The Pacific Coast leads with three.

The south, which in 1949 suffered repeated intersectional indignities, now has seven of the first 20 teams, the best record of all. The midwest have five, the southwest and far west three each and the east two.

Army gained 124 first place votes on the strength of its 27-6 victory over Michigan Saturday at Yankee Stadium.

This ballooned the cadets' point total to 2,427 on the basis of ten points for a first place vote, nine for second and so on down the line.

If it seems strange to go this far without mentioning Notre Dame, it is not an oversight. The Fighting Irish, beaten by Purdue ten days ago, dropped from the first ten for the first time since the lean war years. And whatever became of Purdue?

Old grad from Southern California says . . . "we've got a good team . . . better than it's shown so far . . . we should have because it cost us enough . . ."

Many a true word spoken in jest . . . Miami University, conqueror of Purdue, which beat Notre Dame, no surprise to the boys on the inside . . .

One college scout said: "they've been getting 'em in down there . . . just like Princeton up here . . . young football stars are expensive these days but they're worth it . . ."

Charley Caldwell . . . Princeton coach . . . thinks his Holland Doran . . . is about the best tackle in the country . . . "he's big, fast and very, very rough," says Charley, happily . . .

And Lou Little, veteran Columbia University mentor, is clamoring for younger and better football officials . . . "trouble now is," Lou insists, "too many of those head linesmen have their brothers-in-law or their father-in-law handling the sticks instead of somebody who can tell a forward pass from an end run . . ."

Lou wants the colleges to pay more dough and get former football players who know what it is all about and break them in as officials . . .

And coaches are chuckling over the sanity code . . . we have been told that some of the football players down south are getting as much as $5000 a year . . .

And along the Broadway beat we hear . . . Ezzard Charles will tee off on Nick Barone in his next appearance in Cincinnati . . .

Still, nobody objected to Joe Louis' Bum of the Month Club so why balk at Charles picking up a few boffos?

Incidentally, any time Charles fights for an out-of-town promoter, the International Boxing Club, which has Charles under contract, will drag down five per cent of the gate . . .

If Joe Louis insists on fighting . . . IBC will see to it that he has opponents who will be easy to stiffen . . . hoping for a build-up for another bout with Charles . . .

Have you noticed that the major leagues are bringing up minor leaguers who have been aged in the wood . . . the older the better so that Uncle Sam won't get them in the draft . . .

The Cardinals should be sitting pretty with a raft of aged stars on the payroll . . .

Among the tennis racketeers we hear . . . but can't prove . . . that gorgeous Gussie Moran will use 32 different sets of panties on her pro tour . . . one being a leopard skin affair . . .

And among horsemen we hear that Yonkers Raceway stock . . . selling for a buck a share not long ago . . . is now worth one hundred bucks . . .

Which indicates that a punter would have done better buying a share of the track than trying to pick the trotters and pacers which race over it . . selah . . .

Ring Second Barred From Pellone's Corner

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP) — The Illinois State Athletic Commission has banned boxing second Al Warner of New York from Tony Pellone's corner in his 10-rounder against Charley Fusari at Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

The ban is based on the ring death here two years ago of Sam Baroudi, who died after a bout with the present heavyweight champion, Ezzard Charles. Warner was Baroudi's second and the Pellone-Fusari bout was to be his first Chicago appearance since then.

Commissioner Joe Triner accused Warner of "running-out and leaving Baroudi in the hospital dying." Triner said Warner and Baroudi's manager at that time left the city by airplane soon after the fight.

"I served on a coroner's jury after Baroudi died," said Triner. "Warner and the manager were guilty of criminal negligence. This is the first time Warner has ever appeared in Chicago since then."

Arcave Captures Pentagon Purse As Laurel Opens

8,021 Persons See Inaugural Program

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 17 (AP) — Sylvester W. Labrot's Arcave outgamed Bobanet Stable's Attention Mark, the even money favorite in a long stretch battle to score a half length victory in the $4,000 Pentagon Purse, opening day feature race here today.

Despite the urging of Jockey Frank Bone, Attention Mark could not turn back Arcave in the prolonged duel in the payoff drive. Some three lengths behind Attention Mark at the wire was Pentagon Stable's Djinn. Scratches reduced the starting field to six.

Arcave, ridden by Bobbie Strange, paid $5.20, $2.40 and $2.60 across the board.

There were 8,021 turf followers present for the Laurel inaugural.

Yankee Hill Scores

JAMAICA, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—Sanford Stud Farms' Yankee Hill broke out of the gate on top and was never menaced in romping to a one and a half length victory in the Kew Gardens Classified Handicap at a mile and three sixteenths before 20,136 fans at Jamaica race track today.

Ted M. was second three and a half lengths to the good of Uncle Edgar, who outphotoed the favored Antagonism for the show end of the purse.

The veteran Joe Renick rode Yankee Hill, 6-year-old son of Bahram-The Beasel. The time was a good 1:57, a second and four fifths off Lucky Draw's track record made in 1946.

Overlooked in the wagering, Yankee Hill returned mutuels of $13.80, $8.10 and $5.00.

Brion Asks 25 Pct. To Fight Joe Louis

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—A matter of 2½ per cent tonight stood in the way of a Joe Louis-Cesar Brion match scheduled for Chicago Stadium Nov. 29.

Humie Wallman, Brion's manager, said he was offered 22½ per cent to meet the Brown Bomber in the 10-round go, but said he's holding out for 25.

Wallman said his Argentine contender would fight once more before the tentative meeting with Louis, either against Keene Simmons or some other opponent in Baltimore Oct. 30.

One-man Team

BY PILING up a new collegiate record of 490 yards running and passing against Dartmouth, Francis (Reds) Bagnell, Pennsylvania halfback, grabbed the national collegiate spotlight. Bagnell scored three touchdowns and completely dominated the play as Penn whipped Dartmouth, 42 to 26, at Philadelphia. (International)

The management of the track announced today that beginning next Tuesday—October 24—the post time for the first race will be moved up fifteen minutes to 1:15 instead of 1:30 which now prevails.

Army has won the Lambert trophy, symbolic of the mythical eastern collegiate championship, five times in the last six years.

South Has Seven Among Nation's Top 20 Elevens

Army Setting Pace, Irish Ranked 11th

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—Resurgence of the South and Southwest to a place of high respect is the main feature of the first month's skirmishing in college football.

The new first ten, chosen by a vote of 275 sports writers and broadcasters, is: Army, Oklahoma, Southern Methodist, Kentucky, California, Stanford, Texas, Maryland, Ohio State and Washington.

Every section is represented and all except the east, which boasts No. 1 Army, have at least two teams. The Pacific Coast leads with three.

This ballooned the cadets' point total to 2,427 on the basis of ten points for a first place vote, nine for second and so on down the line.

Charley Caldwell . . . Princeton coach . . . thinks his Holland Doran . . . is about the best tackle in the country . . . "he's big, fast and very, very rough," says Charley, happily . . .

And Lou Little, veteran Columbia University mentor, is clamoring for younger and better football officials . . . "trouble now is," Lou insists, "too many of those head linesmen have their brothers-in-law or their father-in-law handling the sticks instead of somebody who can tell a forward pass from an end run . . ."

Lou wants the colleges to pay more dough and get former football players who know what it is all about and break them in as officials . . .

And coaches are chuckling over the sanity code . . . we have been told that some of the football players down south are getting as much as $5000 a year . . .

And along the Broadway beat we hear . . . Ezzard Charles will tee off on Nick Barone in his next appearance in Cincinnati . . .

Still, nobody objected to Joe Louis' Bum of the Month Club so why balk at Charles picking up a few boffos?

Incidentally, any time Charles fights for an out-of-town promoter, the International Boxing Club, which has Charles under contract, will drag down five per cent of the gate . . .

If Joe Louis insists on fighting . . . IBC will see to it that he has opponents who will be easy to stiffen . . . hoping for a build-up for another bout with Charles . . .

Have you noticed that the major leagues are bringing up minor leaguers who have been aged in the wood . . . the older the better so that Uncle Sam won't get them in the draft . . .

Among the tennis racketeers we hear . . . but can't prove . . . that gorgeous Gussie Moran will use 32 different sets of panties on her pro tour . . . one being a leopard skin affair . . .

And among horsemen we hear that Yonkers Raceway stock . . . selling for a buck a share not long ago . . . is now worth one hundred bucks . . .

Ring Second Barred From Pellone's Corner

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP) — The Illinois State Athletic Commission has banned boxing second Al Warner of New York from Tony Pellone's corner in his 10-rounder against Charley Fusari at Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

The ban is based on the ring death here two years ago of Sam Baroudi, who died after a bout with the present heavyweight champion, Ezzard Charles. Warner was Baroudi's second and the Pellone-Fusari bout was to be his first Chicago appearance since then.

Commissioner Joe Triner accused Warner of "running-out and leaving Baroudi in the hospital dying." Triner said Warner and Baroudi's manager at that time left the city by airplane soon after the fight.

"I served on a coroner's jury after Baroudi died," said Triner. "Warner and the manager were guilty of criminal negligence. This is the first time Warner has ever appeared in Chicago since then."

4. All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight Friday before day of games.

6. Contestants may not submit more than one entry each week.
7. The judges of "Pigskin Predictions" are C. V. Burns, Sports Editor of the Cumberland News, Sutter Kegg, Sports Editor of the Evening Times and John L. Borchert, Evening Times Sports Department.

Their decisions will be final. All entries become the property of the Queen City Brewing Company. Prize winners will be announced as soon as results are tabulated.

Here Are The Prizes:

Keyser Council Will Cooperate In Yule Plans

North Side Fire Station Planned

KEYSER, W. Va. — The Keyser City Council met with the mayor yesterday and conducted a routine session at which a delegation of local business men appeared and asked the city's cooperation in the City Retail Bureau's plans for a bigger and better Christmas observance this year. The city officials promised to cooperate in any way possible.

Councilman Richard Herndon asked that a tap be made in the new park being completed at the corner of North Mineral and Centre streets for a fountain to be installed in the center of the park at a later time. The suggestion met with a favorable response.

The big feature of the meeting was the suggestion made on Herndon's motion, that citizens of the North End be given assurance that they need not worry about fear of fire hazards in that area after the new bridge is completed and they face threats of inability to get fire protection.

The matter was discussed and all at the meeting agreed that a plan will be worked out to place a subfire station on the North Side, with one fire truck and a crew of firemen available to take care of any fire threats at a time when the B. and O. railroad crossing at Main Street may be blocked by long freight trains. This matter will be given further consideration at the next meeting.

Council suggested to the mayor that he cooperate with the B. and O. railroad company and the State Road Commission representatives in their plans to provide a through thoroughfare at the Water Street crossing to keep the North Side open at all times with the buisness area.

A number of bills and other routine matters were handled.

Keyser Council Will Cooperate In Yule Plans

North Side Fire Station Planned

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Keyser City Council met with the mayor yesterday and conducted a routine session at which a delegation of local business men appeared and asked the city's cooperation in the City Retail Bureau's plans for a bigger and better Christmas observance this year. The city officials promised to cooperate in any way possible.

Councilman Richard Herndon asked that a tap be made in the new park being completed at the corner of North Mineral and Centre streets for a fountain to be installed in the center of the park at a later time. The suggestion met with a favorable response.

The big feature of the meeting was the suggestion made on Herndon's motion, that citizens of the North End be given assurance that they need not worry about fear of fire hazards in that area after the new bridge is completed and they face threats of inability to get fire protection.

The matter was discussed and all at the meeting agreed that a plan will be worked out to place a subfire station on the North Side, with one fire truck and a crew of firemen available to take care of any fire threats at a time when the B. and O. railroad crossing at Main Street may be blocked by long freight trains. This matter will be given further consideration at the next meeting.

Council suggested to the mayor that he cooperate with the B. and O. railroad company and the State Road Commission representatives in their plans to provide a through thoroughfare at the Water Street crossing to keep the North Side open at all times with the buisness area.

A number of bills and other routine matters were handled.

Mabel is a goat, believe it or not, and in Robert Thoran's story she becomes the companion of a horse Cary, as a soldier, bought.

Before Loretta Young takes off for New York over the weekend, she will again confer with Darryl Zanuck about a sequel to "Come to the Stable."

Both Loretta and Celeste Holm have had such a fine reaction to this unusual story, about two nuns who build a school through their own efforts, that they are interested in any sequel.

Loretta will probably talk to Clare Boothe Luce, the author, while she and Tom Lewis are east. The sequel will, of course, also be a comedy. The amusing and different situations are what made "Come to the Stable" so enjoyable.

Our lady ambassador, Perle Mesta, sent her brother to see a performance of "Call Me Madam," to be sure there was nothing that reflected on her benefactor, President Truman, before she attended the play.

One of my friends, who attended the opening night, said one of the hit songs is "They Like Ike." When it was sung, our wonderful Gen. Eisenhower, who was in the audience, modestly hid behind his program.

I personaly think Rita's getting a little homesick because we all hear from her more frequently than we did a year ago, but she never has been much of a letter writer.

Kirk Douglas and Irene Wrightsman McEvoy said farewell at the Cocoanut Grove Sunday night—but only for three weeks while Kirk goes on location for "The Traveler."

Nancy Sinatra and Arthur Loew Jr. at a table for two at Ciro's, later joined Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis at a table for four. Apparently Arthur and Janet, who were once so in love, are still good friends.

Mary Anita Loos and Richard Sale had a telegram from Aunt Anita saying, "Why didn't you tell me you expect another baby." I also had a wire from the pint-sized playwright telling me she had a luncheon date with my favorite doctor, who is in Manhattan.

Red Skelton, the town's most rabid amateur photographer, and Danny Kaye, who played a camera man in his first movie success, will be at the Hollywood Press Photographers' Ball next Saturday, but of course—so will all the rest of the stars. Tickets are going like hot cakes because most of the stars feel these boys deserve their support at their one big affair a year.

Our popular Jack Dempsey, who has been ailing in New York, has had the sympathy of Carole Ingersoll. She isn't exactly a new face to Jack, who formerly was that way about Carole's sister, Felice.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Va.—One hundred and twelve members of the Sunday School at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, South Mineral Street, have been awarded certificates for perfect attendance for a year or more, at the Sunday morning session. Taylor are in their twenty-fourth year and Fred Steward, is in his twenty-second year.

The ratings governing the attendance records result from use of the Robert Raikes system, being used in many Sunday schools in the country. The system allows for four absences in a given calendar year.

Kirk Douglas and Irene Wrightsman McEvoy said farewell at the Cocoanut Grove Sunday night—but only for three weeks while Kirk goes on location for "The Traveler."

Nancy Sinatra and Arthur Loew Jr. at a table for two at Ciro's, later joined Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis at a table for four. Apparently Arthur and Janet, who were once so in love, are still good friends.

Mary Anita Loos and Richard Sale had a telegram from Aunt Anita saying, "Why didn't you tell me you expect another baby." I also had a wire from the pint-sized playwright telling me she had a luncheon date with my favorite doctor, who is in Manhattan.

Red Skelton, the town's most rabid amateur photographer, and Danny Kaye, who played a camera man in his first movie success, will be at the Hollywood Press Photographers' Ball next Saturday, but of course—so will all the rest of the stars. Tickets are going like hot cakes because most of the stars feel these boys deserve their support at their one big affair a year.

Our popular Jack Dempsey, who has been ailing in New York, has had the sympathy of Carole Ingersoll. She isn't exactly a new face to Jack, who formerly was that way about Carole's sister, Felice.

Burgess Meredith, who taught Joan Diener to play love scenes in "Season in the Sun" is continuing the after school lessons.

Jeanne Cagney, Jimmie and Bill's sister, came right back from the straw-hat circuit and into a radio series. She has signed with Lary Finley for "Cindy."

Sunday School Gives 112 Attendance Awards

KEYSER, W. Va.—One hundred and twelve members of the Sunday School at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, South Mineral Street, have been awarded certificates for perfect attendance for a year or more, at the Sunday morning session. George C. Ludwig, has the longest record, being now in his thirty-second year. John I. Rogers ranks second, being now in his thirty-first year; Miss Josephine Bolyard and N. C. Taylor are in their twenty-fourth year and Fred Steward, is in his twenty-second year.

The ratings governing the attendance records result from use of the Robert Raikes system, being used in many Sunday schools in the country. The system allows for four absences in a given calendar year.

They were skilled in exploiting any signs of weakness or uncertainty or appeasement. This was their national policy.

"Having seen the Red army and Russian diplomacy in action, my own belief is that there is nothing the Soviets would not do to achieve world domination.

"But I am convinced also that they respect force; perhaps they respect nothing in the world except force. And when confronted with strength and determination, they stop, look and listen."

Using neither of the persuaders that make possible large assemblies in eastern Europe—the gun and the knaut—the Crusade for Freedom has obtained 3-½ million signatures for its "freedom scroll."

The Crusade for Freedom is an organization headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay. It sells nothing but a rebirth of individual freedom, a revitalization of this country's interest in remaining a land of liberty in a world that is either giving up that commodity or having it wrenched away.

The first real "meeting" of its far-flung members will be achieved by ear. At noon (EST) on October 24 the 10-ton Freedom Bell which has been placed in Berlin's City Hall will ring out for the first time. The sponsors of the bell hope that its sound, broadcast throughout the world by radio, will be picked up by a tremendous assembly of other bells in other places.

So don't be surprised next Tuesday when every bell in your community, from church bells to cow bells, sounds off. For the movement has spread vigorously. California has produced more than 1,000,000 signers of the scroll; Ohio more than 1-¼ million. Greater Cincinnati, with a population of 800,000, has marked up 500,000 names.

Friend of mine named Ward Greene was curled up with a copy of Who's Who the other night, looking up John Steinbeck or somebody, when what does he come across but Stalin, Joseph Vissarionovich, Chmn, Council of Ministers of the U.S.S.R.; B. Gori, Tiflis, Georgia, Russia, Dec. 21, 1879, etc.

Turns out that Joe rates 51 lines in Green's edition of Who's Who, two more than F. D. R. and twice as many as Mr. Truman.

The British have a kind of mobile Fort Knox cruising through the U. S. these days. It's a superb 18 carat gold Windsor tea and coffee service, designed and manufactured in commemoration of the 650th anniversary of the institution of the English hall mark.

At the unveiling of the service recently, at the Worcester Silver Company in New York, it was guarded by a London bobby in tan shoes. He seemed just as bewildered as the rest of us when it was announced that it is the work of Arthur Hudson, ". . . who spent more than 350 hours chasing the gold."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

They were skilled in exploiting any signs of weakness or uncertainty or appeasement. This was their national policy.

"Having seen the Red army and Russian diplomacy in action, my own belief is that there is nothing the Soviets would not do to achieve world domination.

"But I am convinced also that they respect force; perhaps they respect nothing in the world except force. And when confronted with strength and determination, they stop, look and listen."

Using neither of the persuaders that make possible large assemblies in eastern Europe—the gun and the knaut—the Crusade for Freedom has obtained 3-½ million signatures for its "freedom scroll."

The Crusade for Freedom is an organization headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay. It sells nothing but a rebirth of individual freedom, a revitalization of this country's interest in remaining a land of liberty in a world that is either giving up that commodity or having it wrenched away.

The first real "meeting" of its far-flung members will be achieved by ear. At noon (EST) on October 24 the 10-ton Freedom Bell which has been placed in Berlin's City Hall will ring out for the first time. The sponsors of the bell hope that its sound, broadcast throughout the world by radio, will be picked up by a tremendous assembly of other bells in other places.

So don't be surprised next Tuesday when every bell in your community, from church bells to cow bells, sounds off. For the movement has spread vigorously. California has produced more than 1,000,000 signers of the scroll; Ohio more than 1-¼ million. Greater Cincinnati, with a population of 800,000, has marked up 500,000 names.

Friend of mine named Ward Greene was curled up with a copy of Who's Who the other night, looking up John Steinbeck or somebody, when what does he come across but Stalin, Joseph Vissarionovich, Chmn, Council of Ministers of the U.S.S.R.; B. Gori, Tiflis, Georgia, Russia, Dec. 21, 1879, etc.

Turns out that Joe rates 51 lines in Green's edition of Who's Who, two more than F. D. R. and twice as many as Mr. Truman.

The British have a kind of mobile Fort Knox cruising through the U. S. these days. It's a superb 18 carat gold Windsor tea and coffee service, designed and manufactured in commemoration of the 650th anniversary of the institution of the English hall mark.

The tray alone weighs 220 ounces, largest single piece of 18 carat gold ever assayed at Birmingham's assay office—which began operating in 1773.

At the unveiling of the service recently, at the Worcester Silver Company in New York, it was guarded by a London bobby in tan shoes. He seemed just as bewildered as the rest of us when it was announced that it is the work of Arthur Hudson, ". . . who spent more than 350 hours chasing the gold."

Yesterday's Answer

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

J E C T W D W T W C P S S, A T W C P H W V G K P H G A T E V W — W V W D H E K.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: WHY SHOULD WE STRIVE, WITH CYNIC FROWN, TO KNOCK THEIR FAIRY CASTLES DOWN? —COOK.

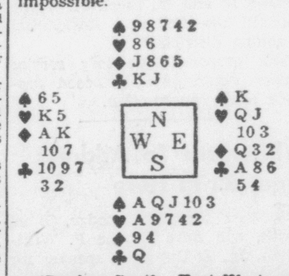
LITTLE CARD, BIG VALUE

It is natural to consider a card's value in direct proportion to its height. The higher it is, the more valuable. But there are times when the special value of a particular card is the fact that it is so little, instead of so big. That is the case when you need that little fellow to lead to a slightly higher one in the opposite hand, as a vital entry. Its very smallness may enable you to get over there to lead some established card on which you may obtain a discard, or perhaps to try a finesse which otherwise would be impossible.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable).

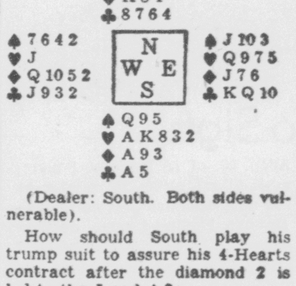
South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠

South kicked that contract away with celerity and despatch. When West led the diamond K and A, then followed with the 10, on which East had to put the Q, the trick was ruffed by the spade 3. That careless play cooked the declarer's goose. He got one lucky break in managing to fell the singleton spade K with the A, but he could never get into the dummy to use the set-up diamond J. So, besides the two tricks already gone, he had to drop one in clubs and one in hearts to be down one.

All that South had to do to assure his contract was to ruff that first trick he took with something higher than the 3. That card should have been saved as the only one he could lead to the dummy as a sure entry. After ruffing the third diamond with the Q, J or 10, his right play was to try to drop the singleton K, which would succeed, then take a second trump and follow it with a lead of the 3 to the 9. The diamond J would have afforded a discard of the club Q.

Going back and forth a bit, he could have ruffed enough hearts to establish the fifth one in his hand, assuring the success of his contract.

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable).

How should South play his trump suit to assure his 4-Hearts contract after the diamond 2 is led to the J and A?

Market Advances For First Time Since Last Wednesday

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP) — The stock market advanced today for the first time since last Wednesday The rise was the steepest in two weeks.

Gains were widely distributed although there was considerable favoritism shown for a hand-picked group of shares. Key issues moved up a few cents to more than $1 a share and nearly 100 stocks sold at their peak prices for 1950 or longer at one time during the day. Only two touched bottom for the year

Final prices were at or near the best levels of the session.

Among the gainers were Sunray Oil, Socony-Vacuum, Chesapeake & Ohio, Republic Steel, General Motors, Willys-Overland, U. S. Steel, Missouri Pacific preferred, Libby McNeil & Libby, Anaconda Copper, N. Y. Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Chrysler, Goodrich, Pullman, Armour & Co., Wilson, American Telephone, Atlantic Coast Line, Nickel Plate and Dow Chemical.

the Palestinian planks in the 1944 and 1948 Republican platforms. He did more than any other men and three of us, Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, General Julius Klein, and I, would have to say, if we were under oath, that were it not for Taft, these planks would not have been adopted in satisfactory form by either the Republicans or the Democrats.

These CIO-Democratic books are masterpieces of twisted statements, of slanted half-truths, of false conclusions from petty incidents. It shows, first, the connection between the CIO and the Democrats, and secondly, their desperate indecency.

Market Advances For First Time Since Last Wednesday

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP) — The stock market advanced today for the first time since last Wednesday. The rise was the steepest in two weeks.

Gains were widely distributed although there was considerable favoritism shown for a hand-picked group of shares. Key issues moved up a few cents to more than $1 a share and nearly 100 stocks sold at their peak prices for 1950 or longer at one time during the day. Only two touched bottom for the year.

Final prices were at or near the best levels of the session.

Turnover picked up speed following Monday's comparatively slow 1,630,000 shares, and volume reached 2,010,000 shares.

Among the gainers were Sunray Oil, Socony-Vacuum, Chesapeake & Ohio, Republic Steel, General Motors, Willys-Overland, U. S. Steel, Missouri Pacific preferred, Libby McNeil & Libby, Anaconda Copper, N. Y. Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Chrysler, Goodrich, Pullman, Armour & Co., Wilson, American Telephone, Atlantic Coast Line, Nickel Plate and Dow Chemical.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

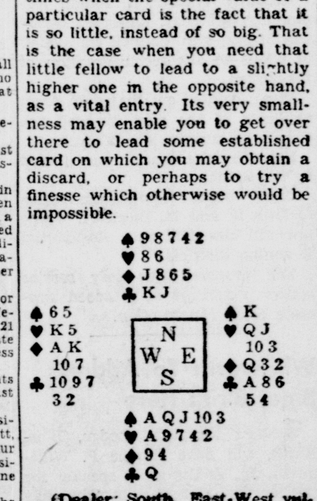
LITTLE CARD, BIG VALUE

It is natural to consider a card's value in direct proportion to its height. The higher it is, the more valuable. But there are times when the special value of a particular card is the fact that it is so little, instead of so big. That is the case when you need that little fellow to lead to a slightly higher one in the opposite hand, as a vital entry. Its very smallness may enable you to get over there to lead some established card on which you may obtain a discard, or perhaps to try a finesse which otherwise would be impossible.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable).

South	West	North	East
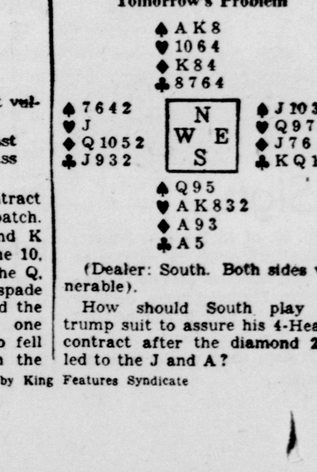
4 ♠

South kicked that contract away with celerity and despatch. When West led the diamond K and A, then followed with the 10, on which East had to put the Q, the trick was ruffed by the spade 3. That careless play cooked the declarer's goose. He got one lucky break in managing to fell the singleton spade K with the A, but he could never get into the dummy to use the set-up diamond J. So, besides the two tricks already gone, he had to drop one in clubs and one in hearts to be down one.

All that South had to do to assure his contract was to ruff that first trick he took with something higher than the 3. That card should have been saved as the only one he could lead to the dummy as a sure entry. After ruffing the third diamond with the Q, J or 10, his right play was to try to drop the singleton K, which would succeed, then take a second trump and follow it with a lead of the 3 to the 9. The diamond J would have afforded a discard of the club Q.

Going back and forth a bit, he could have ruffed enough hearts to establish the fifth one in his hand, assuring the success of his contract.

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable).

How should South play his trump suit to assure his 4-Hearts contract after the diamond 2 is led to the J and A?

Morrison Named Asst. General Manager Of Reading Railroad

To Assume New Post In Reading Friday

R. A. J. Morrison, superintendent of the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, has been appointed assistant general manager of the Reading Railroad, effective Friday.

The appointment was confirmed last night in Baltimore by a top B. and O. official, who said Morrison will begin his new duties in Reading Friday.

Morrison will be succeeded here by Chester T. Williams, who is now superintendent of the B. and O.'s Pittsburgh division.

Among the principal cities served by the line are Philadelphia, Reading, Allentown, Harrisburg, Bethlehem, Lancaster, Sunbury and Williamsport, all in Pennsylvania.

The railway is part of the Baltimore and Ohio's Royal Blue Line, which includes the B. and O., the Reading and the Jersey Central Railroads.

Is World War I Vet

Morrison came here June 1, 1948, succeeding H. F. Wyatt, who was named general manager of the Chicago terminal region by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

A native of Cincinnati, Ohio, Morrison became affiliated with the B. and O. on July 1, 1921, after serving with the Army during World War I as a second lieutenant in the Field Artillery.

He began his railroad career in the Dayton, Ohio, Division engineering office and served there until 1926, when he was transferred to Garrett, Ind., and promoted to assistant trainmaster in the Chicago Division.

Later, he became trainmaster of the Newark, Ohio, Division, followed by service at Massillon, Ohio, and Pittsburgh, Pa.

From January 1 to October 1, 1941, Morrison was assistant superintendent of the Pittsburgh Division and was then transferred to Wheeling, W. Va., in October to become superintendent of the Wheeling Division.

Morrison has been active in civic affairs of this city during his two-year stay here. He has been active in the work of the Cumberland Community Chest and is a director of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

He is a member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church and the Cumberland Country Club. He was an active member of the Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee.

Begins Duties Friday

He has been making his home on Windsor Road, the Dingle.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison have four children, John, a chemical engineer in St. Paul, Minn.; J. Elliott P., a senior at Yale University; Mary Frances, a sophomore at Smith College, and R. Harley, at St. James School, near Hagerstown.

He assumed that post after serving as superintendent of the Akron Division, with headquarters in Akron, Ohio. He also served on the Newark and Central Divisions.

R. W. Brown, who is president of the Reading, was once superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and John F. Niland, this city, is assistant superintendent of the operating department of the Reading's Philadelphia Division.

State Police Head Asks New Barracks Here

Col. Jarman Terms Quarters Inadequate

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17 (AP)—Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of Maryland State Police, today proposed the building of a training school at Pikesville and new barracks at Waldorf, Easton and Cumberland.

A $1,225,125 program for long-range capital improvements was laid before the State Planning Commission. Col. Jarman asked that the four projects be given first priority.

He said he considers the training school the most important item. It would be part of the new State Police headquarters layout at Pikesville.

Presently Maryland troopers are trained in the National Guard Armory at Pikesville and Col. Jarman said the National Guard wants to get back exclusive use of the building.

The force is now in the process of expanding from 250 to 300 men and the superintendent said it ultimately will need 350 officers.

Col. Jarman described the barracks at Waldorf, Easton and Cumberland as very old and inadequate. Houses must be rented at Waldorf and Cumberland to provide sleeping quarters for the troopers, he reported.

At Easton, a relocation of highways in preparation for completion of the Bay Bridge has left the barracks away from the main roads, he declared. The present barracks he described as inadequate and suggested it be relocated.

Col. Jarman designated as No. 2 priority the building of new barracks at Conowingo. He assigned a No. 3 priority to enlargement of present barracks at Benson, Salisbury and Randallstown.

335 Sign Loyalty Pledges At Ridgeley

A total of 335 people signed loyalty pledges in Ridgeley, W. Va., yesterday and Monday in the campaign sponsored by Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion.

Legionnaires said loyalty pledge blanks will be available at the Legion post home every day until Friday at 5:30 p.m. for those wishing to sign.

At last night's regular meeting of the post, Robert Lindsay resigned as sergeant-at-arms, because his employment prevents him from attending meetings. Kenneth Gray was elected to succeed him.

Members of the post and its auxiliary will march in the Halloween parade in Cumberland on October 31, and are asked to assemble at the post home at 6:30 p.m. Those participating in the parade will be guests at a social in the post hall after the review.

Tomorrow Set As Return Day

Thursday from 9 a. m. until noon has been designated as Return Day by Patrick F. King, clerk to the Board of Election supervisors.

With the completion of registration days and revision day yesterday, all precinct poll books and records must, according to law, now be returned to the office of the Board of Election Supervisors in the Court House until the election, November 7.

King said he will be on hand tomorrow from 9 until noon to accept the books.

5 Yard Diesels Are Placed In Service Here

Musical Whistles Find Public Favor

The delivery of five new switching Diesel electric locomotives for service in the Cumberland yards was announced last night by R. A. J. Morrison, division superintendent.

Morrison said a number of the Diesels passing over the Cumberland Division are now equipped with chimes.

Those who have noted the musical whistles describe them as pleasant in contrast to the horns which many found objectionable.

Shifter Diesels will have whistles with a single chime effect, while freight Diesels will have from one to five chimes.

Two Polling Places Report Revision Work

Thirteen names were added to election books of District 6, Precinct 6, at Bowling Green on revision day yesterday, officials reported.

The total, all transfers, included eight Republicans and five Democrats. Three names, two Republicans and one independent, were stricken from the books.

Up to date totals for 6-6 amount to 816 registered. Of that number, 472 are Republicans, 335 are Democrats and nine are independents.

Only other precinct reporting last night was District 26, Precinct 1, Frostburg.

Seventeen names, 16 Republicans and one Democrat, were stricken from the books there. Officials said present registration totals 482, including 321 Republicans, 157 Democrats, two independent, one Socialist and one unaffiliated.

Cumberland Man Hurt In Accident

Paul Byrne, South Allegany Street, Cumberland, was admitted to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, last night following an accident on new Route 40 about 150 feet east of the Parkersburg Road.

Byrne's car struck the parked automobile of Charles Broadwater, Frostburg, witnesses said. Both vehicles were badly damaged. Byrne did not appear to be badly hurt.

He was taken to the hospital by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ward, Frostburg, who passed the scene a few minutes after the accident.

Byrne, a Celanese employe, had taken his wife to her home in Lonaconing a short time before the accident happened, it was reported.

Stuckey Treasurer Of Corriganville Firemen

Joseph Stuckey was elected treasurer of the Corriganville Fire Company last night to succeed Calvin F. Delbrook, who resigned because he has accepted employment as a postal clerk in Washington, D. C.

Stuckey was financial secretary, but resigned that office to become treasurer. George L. Bowers was elected financial secretary.

First To Sign

Shown above is Dr. William Reed Allen, 33, of 15 Prospect Square, who was the first member of the medical profession to register at Fredericksburg, Va., Monday under the new Selective Service regulations. Dr. Allen, who was passing through Fredericksburg, decided to register there because he did not expect to be back in Cumberland in time to sign at the local draft office. The local dentist said his active duty in World War II was just 17 days short of the time required to exempt him from the registration.

Orphaned Kittens Adopt Family Dog

"Junior," a male dog and family pet at the Keyser Studio, Main Street, Keyser, W. Va., is a little bit bewildered as these four 15-day-old kittens climb over him. The kittens' mother died several days after they were born, and since then the little felines sleep with "Junior," follow him about, climb over him and appear to consider him their "mother" or perhaps "father." Anyway, they've adopted "Junior" and he seems to like the idea. The kittens are fed with an eye dropper, and with this kind of care, plus the attention they give to and get from "Junior," are reported doing very nicely. Cute, aren't they?

Red Feather Final Report Is Due Today

The Community Chest drive was extended from last Friday when reports showed that $2,783 was lacking of the goal of $87,794.

Eiler pointed out that women workers headed by Mrs. H. W. Eliason are continuing their canvassing although the Residential Section has already passed its quota of $4,500.

Persons who have not been approached are requested to call 6467 to have someone call for their donations.

Those still having pledge cards are asked to call the same place before 11:30 this morning, and the cards will be picked up.

Callis Appeals To Zone Board

Several lots at the corner of Louisiana Avenue and Hill Top Drive were in the limelight again yesterday.

Charles D. Callis, Route 2, Williams Road, filed an appeal with the Board of Zoning Appeals for an occupancy permit to use two of the vacant lots for construction of a service station.

The section was considered several months ago during plans for amendments to the zoning ordinance, under which about 26 areas along main streets were changed from residential to business zoning areas.

Both the Board of Zoning Appeals and the Municipal Planning Commission recommended that the section be classified as a business zone.

However, it was not included in the amendments to the ordinance when they were passed by the Mayor and Council.

Callis' permit application refers to Lots 13 and 14, Block 17, which are still classified as a Residential B zoning districts.

GOP Caravan Visits Carroll

Making the swing through the county which has voted Republican in general elections for almost two decades were Candidates Theodore R. McKeldin, for governor, John Marshall Butler, for the U. S. Senate; William A. Gunter, for attorney general, and James Patrick Devereux, for the Second Maryland Congressional District seat.

Butler declared that President Truman flew to Wake Island to confer with General MacArthur because he "wanted to get into the act" of a hero.

"The fanfare of the meeting with General MacArthur reminds us of the old-time vaudeville actors who worked up applause for a poor performance by waving an American flag at the end of their act," Butler said.

"By making a gesture of respect and friendship five years too late, President Truman fulfills his administration's instinct for the red herring. This time that poor fish is dragged clear across the world to throw sea spray in front of our shocked surprise at our unpreparedness."

He said that the Lane administration has been collecting taxes "far in excess of state budget needs."

Bookie Trial Results In Hung Jury

Case Is Continued To Next Term

A Circuit Court petit jury failed to agree yesterday after three hours of deliberations in a case against Richard Fox, accused of taking bets on horses at the Scoreboard, North Mechanic Street.

Members of the jury received the case at 11:15 a. m. and around 3 p. m. returned to the court room and told the court they could not agree. The court excused the veniremen and ordered the case continued until the next term of court.

A second jury case against Frankie Frantz on a similar charge also was continued. Frantz, officers said, was accused of taking bets on horses at the Queen City Billiard Hall, North Liberty Street.

Prosecuting witness called by the state in the case against Fox, were two probationary police officers of the City of Cumberland, William R. Keating and Carl Frankfort.

The officers said they entered the Scoreboard, wearing plainclothes, and placed a bet with Fox on the seventh race at Narragansett Park, September 23, at 4:50 p. m.

They said Fox wrote the bet down on a slip of paper at the counter and that other bets were being taken.

Defense witnesses, John E. Jenkins, owner of the pool room; Cecil Sagle, former employe; Richard Diamond, the landlord and Fox, all denied that a bet was placed.

They said Fox told the two young men that no bets were made on horse racing in the establishment.

Fox said he informed the two men three separate times no bets were taken on horse racing. One of the officers said: "I know you do," according to Fox's testimony.

In summing up the defense in his argument before the jurors, Thomas B. Finan, attorney for Fox, declared that the state had not produced any evidence of betting on horse racing and he also stated that the story by the two officers "was flimsy."

"If they had seen Fox write down a bet on a slip of paper, why didn't they make an arrest then," Finan inquired.

"The city police had ample time o prepare their plan but, except for the testimony of two inexperienced probationary officers, there is not one bit of evidence backing up the charge," Finan told the jury.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris said that the young officers could not do other than they did because the Scoreboard was only one place which was to be visited in an attempt to get evidence of gambling.

Harris said no names of other witnesses were taken during the visit to the pool room as it is apparent this would have upset the plans of the police in the other places to be visited.

The state's attorney also said it was up to the jury whether to believe the two officers or the four witnesses, whom he said all had in some manner a connection with the place.

He then recounted that Fox was an employe of the place and the accused, Jenkins owned the pool room, Diamond is the landlord and Sagle a former employe of the establishment.

Court attaches said they learned the jury had been split six to six on the case and on the final ballot taken stood seven to five for conviction.

In a second jury case yesterday Howard S. Butler, Piedmont, W. Va., was acquitted on a charge of drunken driving and fined $10 and costs on a charge of reckless driving. He was represented by Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., and the case had been appealed from a trial magistrate. McDonough said he was not and had not been drinking while driving his car at the time of his arrest, two years ago.

The jury was asked by Associate Judge George Henderson to return to court for duty at 9:15 a. m. today.

The appointment was confirmed last night in Baltimore by a top B. and O. official, who said Morrison will begin his new duties in Reading Friday.

Morrison will be succeeded here by Chester T. Williams, who is now superintendent of the B. and O.'s Pittsburgh division.

Williams will take over his new duties here Friday.

The Reading Railroad, formerly the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, has 1,337 miles of track and operates in the highly industrialized area including hard coal fields in Pennsylvania.

A native of Cincinnati, Ohio, Morrison became affiliated with the B. and O. on July 1, 1921, after serving with the Army during World War I as a second lieutenant in the Field Artillery.

He began his railroad career in the Dayton, Ohio, Division engineering office and served there until 1926, when he was transferred to Garrett, Ind., and promoted to assistant trainmaster in the Chicago Division.

Later, he became trainmaster of the Newark, Ohio, Division, followed by service at Massillon, Ohio, and Pittsburgh, Pa.

From January 1 to October 1, 1941, Morrison was assistant superintendent of the Pittsburgh Division and was then transferred to Wheeling, W. Va., in October to become superintendent of the Wheeling Division.

Morrison has been active in civic affairs of this city during his two-year stay here. He has been active in the work of the Cumberland Community Chest and is a director of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

He is a member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church and the Cumberland Country Club. He was an active member of the Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee.

Williams, who will assume his new duties here Friday, has been superintendent of the B. and O.'s Pittsburgh Division since 1948.

He assumed that post after serving as superintendent of the Akron Division, with headquarters in Akron, Ohio. He also served on the Newark and Central Divisions.

R. W. Brown, who is president of the Reading, was once superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and John F. Niland, this city, is assistant superintendent of the operating department of the Reading's Philadelphia Division.

State Police Head Asks New Barracks Here

Col. Jarman Terms Quarters Inadequate

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17 (AP)—Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of Maryland State Police, today proposed the building of a training school at Pikesville and new barracks at Waldorf, Easton and Cumberland.

A $1,225,125 program for long-range capital improvements was laid before the State Planning Commission. Col. Jarman asked that the four projects be given first priority.

He said he considers the training school the most important item. It would be part of the new State Police headquarters layout at Pikesville.

Presently Maryland troopers are trained in the National Guard Armory at Pikesville and Col. Jarman said the National Guard wants to get back exclusive use of the building.

The force is now in the process of expanding from 250 to 300 men and the superintendent said it ultimately will need 350 officers.

Col. Jarman described the barracks at Waldorf, Easton and Cumberland as very old and inadequate. Houses must be rented at Waldorf and Cumberland to provide sleeping quarters for the troopers, he reported.

At Easton, a relocation of highways in preparation for completion of the Bay Bridge has left the barracks away from the main roads, he declared. The present barracks he described as inadequate and suggested it be relocated.

Col. Jarman designated as No. 2 priority the building of new barracks at Conowingo. He assigned a No. 3 priority to enlargement of present barracks at Benson, Salisbury and Randallstown.

5 Yard Diesels Are Placed In Service Here

Musical Whistles Find Public Favor

The delivery of five new switching Diesel electric locomotives for service in the Cumberland yards was announced last night by R. A. J. Morrison, division superintendent.

Morrison said a number of the Diesels passing over the Cumberland Division are now equipped with chimes.

Those who have noted the musical whistles describe them as pleasant in contrast to the horns which many found objectionable.

In fact, officials said, few persons have even noticed the new warning signals.

The new devices are said to make a sound like the traditional steam whistle of Casey Jones' day.

Shifter Diesels will have whistles with a single chime effect, while freight Diesels will have from one to five chimes.

He was taken to the hospital by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ward, Frostburg, who passed the scene a few minutes after the accident.

Orphaned Kittens Adopt Family Dog

"Junior," a male dog and family pet at the Keyser Studio, Main Street, Keyser, W. Va., is a little bit bewildered as these four 15-day-old kittens climb over him. The kittens' mother died several days after they were born, and since then the little felines sleep with "Junior," follow him about, climb over him and appear to consider him their "mother" or perhaps "father." Anyway, they've adopted "Junior" and he seems to like the idea. The kittens are fed with an eye dropper, and with this kind of care, plus the attention they give to and get from "Junior," are reported doing very nicely. Cute, aren't they?

Red Feather Final Report Is Due Today

A "flying squadron" of about 20 men is continuing to check business firms and follow up contacts in the Classified Section of the drive, headed by George M. Martin.

Eiler pointed out that women workers headed by Mrs. H. W. Eliason are continuing their canvassing although the Residential Section has already passed its quota of $4,500.

Persons who have not been approached are requested to call 6467 to have someone call for their donations.

Those still having pledge cards are asked to call the same place before 11:30 this morning, and the cards will be picked up.

Callis Appeals To Zone Board

Several lots at the corner of Louisiana Avenue and Hill Top Drive were in the limelight again yesterday.

Charles D. Callis, Route 2, Williams Road, filed an appeal with the Board of Zoning Appeals for an occupancy permit to use two of the vacant lots for construction of a service station.

The section was considered several months ago during plans for amendments to the zoning ordinance, under which about 26 areas along main streets were changed from residential to business zoning areas.

Both the Board of Zoning Appeals and the Municipal Planning Commission recommended that the section be classified as a business zone.

However, it was not included in the amendments to the ordinance when they were passed by the Mayor and Council.

Recently Thomas B. Finan, former city attorney, appeared before the Mayor and Council on behalf of Callis to ask reconsidreation of the action.

Finan pointed out that only seven residents of the area opposed the change to business classification.

However, the matter was tabled by the council.

Callis' permit application refers to Lots 13 and 14, Block 17, which are still classified as a Residential B zoning districts.

Eiler plans to wear it until the Red Feather goal of $87,794 is reached.

GOP Caravan Visits Carroll

Making the swing through the county which has voted Republican in general elections for almost two decades were Candidates Theodore R. McKeldin, for governor, John Marshall Butler, for the U. S. Senate; William A. Gunter, for attorney general, and James Patrick Devereux, for the Second Maryland Congressional District seat.

Butler declared that President Truman flew to Wake Island to confer with General MacArthur because he "wanted to get into the act" of a hero.

"The fanfare of the meeting with General MacArthur reminds us of the old-time vaudeville actors who worked up applause for a poor performance by waving an American flag at the end of their act," Butler said.

"By making a gesture of respect and friendship five years too late, President Truman fulfills his administration's instinct for the red herring. This time that poor fish is dragged clear across the world to throw sea spray in front of our shocked surprise at our unpreparedness."

McKeldin again criticized what he termed the over-taxation and extravagance of the administration of Governor Lane, his Democratic opponent.

He said that the Lane administration has been collecting taxes "far in excess of state budget needs."

Bookie Trial Results In Hung Jury

Case Is Continued To Next Term

A Circuit Court petit jury failed to agree yesterday after three hours of deliberations in a case against Richard Fox, accused of taking bets on horses at the Scoreboard, North Mechanic Street.

Members of the jury received the case at 11:15 a. m. and around 3 p. m. returned to the court room and told the court they could not agree. The court excused the veniremen and ordered the case continued until the next term of court.

A second jury case against Frankie Frantz on a similar charge also was continued. Frantz, officers said, was accused of taking bets on horses at the Queen City Billiard Hall, North Liberty Street.

Prosecuting witness called by the state in the case against Fox, were two probationary police officers of the City of Cumberland, William R. Keating and Carl Frankfort.

The officers said they entered the Scoreboard, wearing plainclothes, and placed a bet with Fox on the seventh race at Narragansett Park, September 23, at 4:50 p. m.

They said Fox wrote the bet down on a slip of paper at the counter and that other bets were being taken.

Defense witnesses, John E. Jenkins, owner of the pool room; Cecil Sagle, former employe; Richard Diamond, the landlord and Fox, all denied that a bet was placed.

They said Fox told the two young men that no bets were made on horse racing in the establishment.

Fox said he informed the two men three separate times no bets were taken on horse racing. One of the officers said: "I know you do," according to Fox's testimony.

In summing up the defense in his argument before the jurors, Thomas B. Finan, attorney for Fox, declared that the state had not produced any evidence of betting on horse racing and he also stated that the story by the two officers "was flimsy."

"If they had seen Fox write down a bet on a slip of paper, why didn't they make an arrest then," Finan inquired.

"The city police had ample time o prepare their plan but, except for the testimony of two inexperienced probationary officers, there is not one bit of evidence backing up the charge," Finan told the jury.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris said that the young officers could not do other than they did because the Scoreboard was only one place which was to be visited in an attempt to get evidence of gambling.

Harris said no names of other witnesses were taken during the visit to the pool room as it is apparent this would have upset the plans of the police in the other places to be visited.

The state's attorney also said it was up to the jury whether to believe the two officers or the four witnesses, whom he said all had in some manner a connection with the place.

He then recounted that Fox was an employe of the place and the accused, Jenkins owned the pool room, Diamond is the landlord and Sagle a former employe of the establishment.

Court attaches said they learned the jury had been split six to six on the case and on the final ballot taken stood seven to five for conviction.

In a second jury case yesterday Howard S. Butler, Piedmont, W. Va., was acquitted on a charge of drunken driving and fined $10 and costs on a charge of reckless driving. He was represented by Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., and the case had been appealed from a trial magistrate. McDonough said he was not and had not been drinking while driving his car at the time of his arrest, two years ago.

The jury was asked by Associate Judge George Henderson to return to court for duty at 9:15 a. m. today.
